U. S. BUSINESS FACES NEW ERA SAYS HARDING

President Delivers Optimistic Address Friday In Butte, Mont.

ADMINISTRATION AID

Government Had Strong Hand in Prosperity's Return

Butte, Mont., June 29.—President Harding brought into the Northwest today an optimistitc and militant message to American business. To a great crowd of thousands that packed closely around the rear platform of his train here he declared the miracle wrought by America's mobilization for war had found its counterpart in the mobilization of business during the menacing depresson of two years ago and, going further, he asserted American business now stands only in the doorway of a new era.

"No other nation in the world," said the President, "looks out upon so clear a horizon today."

The President's address was devoted entirely to a survey of world business conditions and a militant defense of the business record of the administration and the manner in which it led the country through the great economic depression that followed the war.

Disavowing partisanship in thus presenting the administration's policies, the President attributed the recovery to the "plain, old fashioned common sense" of the American business man, aided by an administration at Washington that indulged in no fads and fancies of government paternalism.

DEFLATION FOLLOWED.

"Inflation and extravagaece," he said, "had continued for a time following the cessation of hostilities, to be succeeded suddenly by drastic deflation. Excessess of production and expenditure were suddenly followed by impossible restrictions on both. Disaster fell upon business and unemployment was everywhere. Two years ago between 4,500,000 and 5,000,000 workers were without jobs.

I will not discuss the unfortunate policies which brought on this, but suffice it to say today we have to consider ways and means of filling a million jobs which want workers and can't find them.

"That is the bedrock foundation upon which American business and American administration have erected their confidence that this people will not be led into the paths of devious experimentation, the mazes of untried economic theory and the labyrinths of doctrinaire altruism.

"Early in the spring of 1921 it was realized by those in responsible places that unless measures of amelioration were adopted and business were given some ground for hope the winter would be marked by privation and suffering to a scale unprecedented in the history of our people.

"These conditions involved a menace to society. Europe was torn with distractions and revolutions, distressed with the fear of future wars and burdened with debt. A small minority of extremists sought to draw our own country into the maelstrom of social disorganization."

He compared conditions in the U. to those existing in Europe and said:

"If we are accused of getting nowhere in particular, we may reply at any rate we have been able to stay right here, that we regard it as a good place to stay and that day by day we are getting better and better.

"A good many folks have had more excitement than we have had, but a good many people in this world would be glad to exchange their excitement for a modest share in our American accumulation of simple contentment and dinner table necessities."

Those who believe the business and economic situation in America had bad were invited by Mr Harding to look upon conditions in other countries. Many of them, he pointed out, indulged in experiments of a radical nature with disastrous results to their currency and credit stability, as well as a harvest of violence and disorder.

"Instead of riots, strikes, sabotage and preachments of revolution,' said the president, "we reaped a harvest of understanding, of established reflect among groups and enhanced regard for each others viewpoints."

No other nation in the world, he added, has been able to parallel the pace time recovery of American business. The president painted a gloomy picture of business and economic conditions when his adminis-

Daugherty, United States attorney general, who appeared in court.

BIG MARATHAN PLANE IS WRECKED

CHARGES GERMANY IS MAKING THOUSANDS OF BOMBING PLANES FOR USE IN NEXT WAR

Captain Rene Fonch, France's Greatest Living "Ace" Declares Aircraft Being Built By Germans With Intention of Conversion Into War Instruments

Paris, June 28—Under the guise of commercial aviation, Germany is constructing thousands of bombing plans for use in "the next war" if was charged today by Captain Rene Fonck, France's greatest living 'ace,' a member of the chamber of deputies and president of the Aviation League of France.

Fonck emergered from the great war with more honors than any other French airman.

Writing in the Journal, Fonck said:

"If we had disarmed Germany on land and in the air as England disarmed her upon the seas, we should now be secure. But we left to the Germans the right of commercial aviation.

"One clause of the Versailles treaty provides a minimum horsepower engine for all German airplanes. The Germans ostensibly fulfill these conditions, but they build their planes so ruggedly that by a quick transformation, they can easily substitute a motor of double horsepower. Thus a metallic limousine-like Junker-Dessau quickly becomes an effective bombing plane."

An inter-allied aviation control commission, soon after the armistice, forbade all aviation construction in Germany. But since May 5th, 1922, almost all regulations have been lifted. An interallied commission stationed in Berlin still exercises nominal control over German aviation, but this will be withdrawn in 1925.

"German aviation factories have branches in Switzerland, Italy, Holland, Spain and Russia," Captain Fonck asserts. "But Germany's greatest effort is concentrated in Russia. German engineers in Moscow, Petrograd, Odessa and Alexandrovsk oversee soviet workers who construct aviation engines and wings from materials imported from Germany."

Fonck does not ask that Germany be forbidden to construct airplanes. He simply pleads that France build enough planes to successfully combat any German menace that may result.

TWO AVIATORS ESCAPE DEATH IN CALIFORNIA

Machine in Air Almost 24 Hours Makes Forced Landing

San Diego, Cal., June 29.—Captain Lowell Smith and Lieutenant John B. Richter narrowly escaped death when in a forced landing their big De Haviland, world marathon plane turned completely over at Rockwell Field. The machine was badly damaged, but the two intrepid aviators who had been in the air for almost 24 hours, crawled out virtually uninjured.

A damaged crankshaft caused the forced landing and abandonment of the attempt to fly 100 hours without pause. The landing was made just six minutes short of 24 hours after the plane had taken off yesterday in its record making attempt.

The plane came down with honors, though as the 2,500 kilometer, 3,000 and 3,500 kilometer records are believed to have been broken for speed and possibly others. These records were held by Lieutenants MacReady and Kelly, having been hung up at Dayton, Ohio, in the T-2 last fall.

MINERS DEMANDS ON OPERATORS TO BE ISSUED SOON

Will Embrace 20 Per Cent Wage Increase and Eight Hour Day.

Scranton, Pa. June 29—Demands which are to be presented to the hard coal operators by representatives of the United Mine Workers, are expected to be completed late today by the convention of the anthracite workers now in session here.

These demands, embracing mainly a 20 per cent wage increase, the check off and a universal eight-hour day, are a continuation of those formulated at the Shamokin conference a year ago, but which failed of approval by the operators in the temporary settlement last fall.

President John L. Lewis is said to favor a renewal of the present scale under a two-year contract and he is cautiously guiding the work of the convention against any false step or disturbing act which might endanger negotiations soon to begin with the operators.

The miners are anxious to avoid a suspension this fall and belief prevails that there will be no cessation of work. Lewis is particularly anxious to conclude the convention's work here quickly and get negotiations with the operators under way as soon as possible after July 4.

TWO MISSIONARIES DROWNED IN CHINA

Tiffin, O., June 29.—Edmund Winters, 25, and James A. Laubach, 24, Tiffin missionaries for the Reform Church at Yochow, China, were drowned in a lake near that city, friends here learned today.

Both missionaries graduated from Heidelberg University, Laubach former Tiffin high school instructor was engaged to marry Miss Helen Ruff, of Barberton, a classmate. She had her passport and had planned to sail July 6, for China, where the marriage was to take place.

Winters, shortly before he sailed for China, married Miss Annetta Herbster ,of Prospect, Ohio, also a classmate.

Details were lacking in the message except that the missionaries were cruising on a lake. They were teachers in Huping College.

ANGLO-AMERICAN FRICTION OVER LIQUOR CONTROVERSY IS FEARED

Declarations By British Statesmen In House of Lords Put More Serious Aspect Upon Issue Troubling Two Nations.

London, June 29—Declarations by British statesmen in the House of Lords put a more serious aspect today upon the Anglo-American controversy over liquor seizures by American customs officials from English ships in United States home waters.

Lord Curzon's statement on the liquor question was interpreted as an indication that British public opinion will not permt any "great concessions."

This was followed by a statement from Viscount Grey, ex-foreign secretary who fears Anglo-American friction, perhaps of a serious nature, unless the two governments hasten a statement of the dry issue. It was revealed through official channels that Great Britain will not accept Washington's suggestion for a 12-mile limit for search of ships suspected of liquor smuggling. New diplomatic representations are being made to the United States upon this subject.

Lord Curzon holds that the controversy should be left entirely to formal diplomacy for settlement.

A parliamentary committee is now studying the problem of alleged liquor smugling from Great Britain to American territorial waters. Vigorous steps may be taken to stop it. In this event Great Britain will expect concessions from America in regard to the beverage liquors on passenger carrying liners, especially where such liquor is taken into American ports under seal as a pledge it will not be drunk nor taken ashore while the vessels are in American territorial waters.

GRANDFATHER WINS IN CONTEST FOR GIRL WHO IS TAKEN OFF TRAIN HERE

It was up to him to decide whether Susanna Bailey, 16, colored, should be consigned to the care of her grandfather, Willam Morris, 407 Compton Street, Dayton or to her step-father, George A. Bailey, of Washington C. H. Grandpa won.

Susanna was taken from a west bound Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train Thursday afternoon by Sheriff Morris Sharp and Deputy George Spencer. Washington police said she was running away from her home there and bound for Dayton. The girl said she was reared from infancy by her grandparents in Dayton but went to Wasnington last fall to care for her mother who was ill.

Three times she said her grandparents sent money for her return but she was never permitted to go. Then they sent her the money direct and told her to board a train. She was on her way to Dayton when taken off here. Both step-father and grandfather arrived shortly afterward and bid for her possession. Neither had papers. So she was released to Grandfather Morris who took her to Dayton.

PRESIDENT AND BORAH IN ACCORD

Boise, Ida., June 29.—President Harding and Senator Borah are now in complete accord as to the method by which the United States may become a member of an international tribunal. This method calls for recognition of the fact that the United States never will have anything to do with the league of nations and complete divorcement of the court from the league. Senator Borah declared here he was entirely willing to support any plan for the setting up of a world court which would be completely independent of the league, provided, however, that the United States should never be without at least one member of the court.

DONAHEY UPHELD IN MAYOR CASE BY HIGH COURT

REFUSES MANDAMUS

Columbus, June 29.—Ohio supreme court sustained Governor Donahey in the removal of H. H. Vogt as mayor of Massillon for failure to enforce the prohibition laws.

The decision was made in two suits, one for writ of mandamus to compel the governor to reinstate Vogt and one to oust Mayor Kirchhoffer, who as president of council become mayor when Vogt was removed.

The court refused the writ in each case, six judges, Marshall, Wanamaker, Day, Allen, Robinson and Mathias concurring. Judge Jones dissented.

The court's decision upholds the constitutionality of the law, giving the governor power to remove mayors and at the same time holds that Donahey was justified on the evidence submitted in removing Vogt.

POINTS OUT NEED OF YANKEE SHIPS FOR WORLD TRADE

Plummer Says America Must Have Her Share of Business.

Cincinnati, June 29.—Condemnation of unfair British shipping contracts and a strong demand that the United States claim its fair part of world trade were voiced here by Commissioner E. C. Plummer of the shipping board before the Middle West Foreign Trade convention.

Plummer's subject was: "Why our farmers and merchants need American ships." He opposed putting the government out of the shipping business and predicted federal operation until such time as private concerns offer a fair price for its vessels. He attacked the argument that private freight-carrying lines are seriously hurt by government competition.

"Cutting out the Caribbean service and the liners which handle mail," he declared, "there are only 22 large American flag freight ships engaged in our foreign trade. Is a fleet of 1,300 steel ships, owned by you and the other people of this country, plus the trade of a great nation, to be sacrificed or hampered in order that 22 ships may be allowed to do an infinitesimal part of the foreign trade of this country at a price satisfactory to our commercial competitors?"

MRS. S. J. BACON DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. Sarah Jones Bacon, a well known resident of this city, passed away Friday afternoon at two o'clock at her home on Hill Street. Miss Bacon had been in failing health for the last three years from complication which followed influenza and for several weeks her condition had been serious but she had not been noticably worse until just a few minutes before her death when she suddenly lapsed into unconsciousness.

Mrs. Bacon, who was seventy years of age at the time of her death, was the daughter of George W. and Jane Brown Jones. She was born and reared on a farm near Xenia but for many years had made her home in this city. She was a member of the First Reformed church in this city.

She is survived by one brother, Mr. Frank Jones, of Waynesville and by three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Frank, of Oakland, Calif., Mrs. Jerome Jones, of Hutchinson, Kan. and Mrs. Fanny Merrick, of Seattle, Wash. She also leaves several nephews and nieces. Miss Louise Reynolds, Dr. Eber Reynolds, Mr. Arthur Reynolds and Miss Nelle Cherry are the only ones residing in this city.

Arrangements for the funeral services will be announced later.

ORDERS PAYROLL HELD UP.

Columbus, June 29.—Governor Donahey instructed Finance Director Baker to hold up the payroll for Attorney General Crabbe's department until H. H. Griswold, special counsel there, returns $583.30 said to be due the state. This amount represents what Griswold drew as representative after he had been named special counsel, Donahey says, and he refuses to allow him to draw two salaries for the same period of time.

NOT GUILTY IS PLEA ENTERED BY WHITFIELD

Alleged Slayer is Arraigned In Cleveland Friday Morning

Cleveland, O., June 29.—John L. Whitfield, charged with the murder of Patrolman Dennis Griffin here May 11, entered a plea of not guilty when he was arraigned before Common Pleas Judge Bernon today.

Whitfield was held without bail and the trial set for July 23.

A special venire of jurors will be called at once from which will be selected the jury to try Whitfield.

The courtroom was packed but there was no demonstration.

Whitfield's attorneys asked the privilege of changing the plea later in case they think it advisable. This was regarded as significant in face of the rumor that Whitfield would enter a plea of guilty to second degree murder to escape danger of death in the electric chair.

First degree murder carries with it a penalty of death.

It was declared the state would accept no plea of guilty to lower than first degree murder. The prosecutor's office will make every effort to secure the extreme penalty against the alleged slayer of Griffin.

Whitfield has refused to eat since his confinement here, following the arrest in Detroit.

In Whitfield's refusal to eat the authorities see an attempt on his part to be transferred from the jail cell to a hospital, where he could possibly make another escape.

PAYS FINE AFTER CHARGE IS FILED

Boss Hutch, 50, of Gladstone, was fined $10 and costs Thursday when he entered a plea of guilty on a charge of assault and battery before Magistrate J. E. Jones.

Hutch is said to have struck James Thompson. He said Thompson called him a liar. "When you get a warrant for me call me up and I'll come right down," Hutch told Sheriff Morris Sharp. The sheriff did. Shortly afterward Hutch made his appearance, pleaded guilty and paid his fine.

FINED BY MAGISTRATE

Ed Berry, 46, Dennison, Ohio, was fined $50 and costs by Magistrate J. E. Jones Thursday when arraigned on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct. Berry is said to be an employe of the Pennsylvania railroad at Dennison and went to Cincinnati on a company pass. He was said to be drunk and annoying passengers when he was taken from the train here by Railroad Detective Latimer Wednesday night.

GOVERNMENT IS HESITATING TO CHANGE POLICY

Anxious to Avoid Unreasonable Action in Liquor Issue

REGULATIONS MADE

Haynes Prepares Charges—Britain Opposed to U. S. Proposal

Washington, June 29—Anxious to avoid any unreasonable action in the ship liquor controversy which might lead to retaliation by Great Britain or other powers, the government still hesitated today in altering its policy of enforcing the Volstead act within American territorial waters, although prohibition officials continued to insist that seizure of foreign liquor carrying ships should be ordered to stop violations.

Regulations providing for the libeling of foreign vessels and the arrest of captains on charges violating the national prohibition act have been prepared by Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes, but they cannot be promulgated or put into effect until they have the formal approval of acting Secretary of the Secretary of the Treasury S. P. Gilbert.

Thus far Secretary Gilbert has declined to approve the regulations, because he believed, with state department officials, that drastic enforcement of the law was not necessary at this time and expected that illegal importation of liquor would be halted pending the completion of negotiations started by Secretary Hughes to iron out difficulties arising from the supreme court's bone dry decision.

Apparently however, the Hughes proposals, which contemplated the extension of this government's right of search and seizure from three to twelve miles, are not acceptable to Great Britain, notice to this effect having already been given in London by the British foreign minister, although the United States has not been officially advised of the attitude of the British government.

If Great Britain approved the American suggestion of the extension of the three mile limit, the State Department proposed to permit the entrance of beverage liquor under seal, but a flat turndown of the proposition advanced by this government will mean that the treasury department will have to proceed with the seizure of all non-medicinal liquor brought into the United States until Congress has an opportunity six months hence to amend the Volstead act.

Seizure of liquor by this government is not regarded by foreign powers as constituting a cause for retaliatory action against the U. S. but high officials of the state and treasury departments are of the opinion that the seizure of vessels would be attacked as unwarranted while diplomatic negotiations were in progress.

ALLEGED LEADER OF LIQUOR RING HERE IS ARRESTED BY LOCAL AUTHORITIES

Bert Blair Taken Into Custody by Sheriff's Office Charged With Conspiracy to Violate Volstead Law—Removed to Dayton

Bert Blair, 50, of 517 North West Street, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs John Baughn and George Spencer, at noon Friday on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Volstead law.

Blair was taken to Dayton immediately by Deputy U. S. Marshall Carson Pratt of Dayton, who had been sent for by Greene County authorities to take him before the U. S. District Court in that city.

Officials here say Blair has been the directing genius in a liquor ring in the county, which they declare included control of a number of stills and the handling of the liquor manufactured.

Sheriff Morris Sharp and Deputy John Baughn, working in conjunction with Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson it is said have made numerous attempts to obtain evidence against Blair on the basis of reports that had come to the office. All raids were fruitless, until recently when a raid conducted on the home of Bert Coons, Hoop road, Caesarcreek Township, by Sheriff Sharp is said to have led to information which resulted in Blair's arrest.

One of the most complete stills ever taken in the county was confiscated by the authorities when Coons was arrested. Coons was fined by Magistrate J. E. Jones in the sum of $800 on a charge of possessing liquor, authorities began the investigation that led to the arrest of Blair.

Federal prohibition agents were consulted by the sheriff's office and the prosecutor in the investigation and when the evidence was prepared Deputy U. S. Marshall Pratt was summon On his arrival, the sheriff's office started on a still hunt for Blair. Deputies Baughn and Spencer arrested him at noon at the Greene County Fairgrounds. He offered no resistance. Shortly afterward he was taken to Dayton by Commissioner Pratt .

Blair will be arraigned in U. S. District Court and will be given a trial before a federal jury authorities say. If convicted he stands to face a term in the federal penitentiary.

U. S. BUSINESS IS FACING NEW ERA SAYS PRESIDENT

FEAR FOR CIVILIZATION

"Earnest men in Europe were solemnly discussing whether civilization would survive and thoughtful people everywhere recognized that if America should be swept into the vortex the disaster would be irreparable. I shall not tell you about the many anxious hours the cabinet devoted to these conditions.

"Many sincere people pleaded that the government provide unemployment doles from the public treasury. That policy had been adopted in many European countries with results which did not commend themselves. We believed it could and should be avoided. We based our belief on certain convictions about that unique combination of altruism and common sense of generosity and hard headedness which always has been characteristic of Americans. The government proceeded to do everything in its power to better conditions. The policy of public finance had kept the hand of government in the tills of bankers filching away from them resources which business so desperately needed, was reversed. Business was given a tardy chance to get the money it needed. A series of reductions in the federal reserve discount rate was inaugurated. Sagacious and sometimes unpopular gentlemen were set at work pruning down the personnel and expenditure of government.

BUDGET INAUGURATED

"The budget system was inaugurated. Measures were adopted to lighten the taxation load and distribute it more equitably. An international conference for reduction of armaments and some menacing causes of war was started. The federal farm loan board was provided with funds in order that it might resume loans to farmers. The war finance corporation was given a credit of half a billion dollars and sent out to relieve the agricultural community.

"We summoned the whole community to take itself by its economic bootstraps and lift itself out of the slough of despondency in which it was fast miring down. A national conference on unemployment was called. The whole business field was surveyed to determine whether more employment could be found and to get man and job together. Appeal was made to every employer to find work for as many people as possible. Municipalities pressed public improvement works. Every employing interest was appealed to 'do it now.

"Emergency committees were established all over the country by industries and municipalities to help organize. Labor and capital, employers and employes united in a common effort which proved to be one of the finest demonstrations of applied altruism and intelligent unselfishness that has ever been accomplished on a like scale. Our policy was to encourage the people to help themselves."

For Vacation Discomforts

The unaccustomed exercise of vacation-time is apt to make the muscles sore, stiff and painful. Other spoil-sports are sunburn, insect bites and poison oak or poison ivy.

Vicks can be applied to prevent these discomforts and is also a soothing relief. It helps, too, in case of summer colds, hay fever or headache.

RESERVES SIGN DAYTON PITCHER TO TAKE WICAL'S PLACE; TO PLAY STUDEBAKERS

Weary of the effort to keep Wical, the Paintersville pitcher in line, the management of the Xenia Reserves has dropped this temperamental hurler to take on Chester Ciphers, Dayton slab artist, who will be on the hill for the locals when they face the Dayton Studebakers at Reserve Park Sunday afternoon.

Ciphers is now pitching in the Dayton Saturday Afternoon League and has been second string relief hurler for the Harshmanville team, considered one of the crack semi-pro outfits in this section. He has signed to play with the Reserves for the rest of the season and the management feels that the contract solves the pitching problem for the locals.

Several other new faces in the Reserve lineup will includ Pummell, of Dayton, who pitched part of last Sunday's game and "Grinny" Milburn, of this city, both of whom have signed. The Reserves are taking on an arm load in booking the Studebakers, who have won the last three starts handily. Bob Heck pitches for the Dayton team and other stars include Mann and Russ Bowman, the latter one of the best short short stops in Dayton.

The game will start at 2:30 o'clock with the same admission charges prevailing and attendance prizes will be offered as last Sunday. Busses leave the Court House every 15 minutes for the park. The Reserves lineup: Greene c, Ciphers or Hall p, Owens 1b, Pummell 2b, G. Milburn ss, DeAtley, 3b, Shaw lf, Holland or Chance cf, Ary, rf, E. Milburn, Sowards and Wilson, utilities.

AL MAHRT TO QUIT FOOTBALL FOREVER

Al Mahrt is through!

It was learned Thursday that "Marty" will leave Dayton next October to enter on new business pursuits in Chicago. The announcement was received with gloom by followers of the Triangles, Dayton's entrant in the football league.

For years "Marty" has been making gridiron history at Dayton. At the University, then St. Marys Institute, and as quarterback on the St. Marys Cadets and later the Triangles, the "cotton top" has been rated as the real punch in the offensive of these teams. Quick to take up the forward pass he perfected himself in this style of over head play with the result that he was considered one of the most accomplished assers in the country. His passes always had yardage and accuracy and his entrance in the game meant speedy open play.

Fans believe the Triangles always play better with "Marty" in the lineup. He added zest to the proceedings whenever injected in the encounter to pilot a scoring attack. His retirement will mark the passing of one of the best and most poular athletes Dayton has ever known.

WASHINGTON STAR, THOUGH HURT LEADS CREW TO FIRST WIN

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 29.—Dow Walling, 21 year old hero of Washington's victorious eight, winners of the annual intercollegiate regatta, was today suffering intense pain from the infected knee which for three days pending the event, threatened to keep him in the hospital instead of at the stroke seat of the "Huskies" shell.

Walling had to be lifted from the Washington boat at the finish of the race last evening when the western crew came in ahead of Navy, leading Columbia, Syracuse, Cornell and Pennsylvania in the order named.

The Washington crew was the "toast of the town" today. While considered a dangerous rival to formidable eastern eights, the westerners—particularly with Walling injured—were not expected to capture such a race last evening when the western clean cut victory.

While the time of 14:03 1-5 for the three mile row, was not a record breaker, when Navy's last year time of 13:33 3-5 is considered the speed of the westerners, under existing weather and water conditions showed their power. The first mile of the race was run in a light race, the last two miles in a downpour.

Washington's victory is the first ever taken by the west in the 28 years of the intercollegiate regatta's history.

In the freshman two mile race, one of the most thrilling seen in a Poughkeepsie regatta, Corneli defeated Washington by an eye lash—by one fifth of a second. Syracuse finished third, Pennsylvania fourth and Columbia fifth.

Syracuse won the two mile junior varsity race by a length, Cornell was second, Columbia third and Pennsylvania fourth.

Thoroughbred Beauty-Performance-Stamina

Paige behavior bespeaks the engineering experience behind the car. Never will you find a car more delightful in handling ease than the Paige.

Paige 70 H. P. motor takes you smoothly over the open road at 70 miles an hour or through the traffic crush at 2. Gear shifting is rarely necessary. Then a bare 3-inch movement does it, and the docile Paige clutch engages without stalling or jerking. No clash or missing mar the driving of the veriest novice.

Paige bodies are substantial. Body squeaks and rattles are prevented by double strips of patent leather that keep metal from touching metal or wood. Richness of finish throughout—not a piece of imitation leather in the car. Ample foot room—and deeply cushioned seats, set comfortably low, make restful riding. Rear springs more than 5 feet long, turn bad roads to good. Easy travel is further assured by 131-inch wheelbase.

Completely equipped—two extra cord tires, rims, tubes, covers, mounted forward on the running boards; stop light; front and rear bumpers; automatic windshield wiper; rear-view mirror; cigar lighter—are a few of the usual extras, that are standard equipment on the Paige.

It is possible to offer this enduring Paige value because the tremendous volume on the Paige-built Jewett has reduced overhead on Paige by hundreds of dollars a car. And it is a value unexcelled. Test it for yourself by seeing and driving this car of fine workmanship. Phone us for a demonstration of unusual car performance.

THE PROGRESS OF THE WORLD.

Each recurring midsummer brings freshly to mind the world crisis of 1914 and the outbreak of the Great War. We are about to begin the tenth year of international struggle toward a non-military basis, and toward a reconstruction of the world on plans in harmony with political democracy and the modern trends of economic and social progress. While the armistice of 1918 and its accompanying events marked a profound transition, they did not secure the results for which an appalling price had been paid. Peace agreements to be genuine, must be ratified in good faith and good will. Otherwise they are but a temporary device, and mean nothing but a pause for the gathering of strength to renew the clash of arms. Thus far it may be said that we have had the benefit of a continuance for almost four years of certain parts of the armistice arrangement, though we are still living in a world that has not dared to relinquish militarism either in principle or in practice. Since 1918, there have been several wars of such proportions that history will call them "minor" only in comparison with the unprecedented magnitude of the struggle that was suspended in November, 1918.

The Great War involved national resources of every kind as well as the movements of armies. How colossal was America's industrial mobilization has now been shown in a notable book by Mr. Grosvenor Clarkson, formerly director of the Council of National Defense, entitled, "Industrial America in the World War." Germany alone, ten years ago, had understood—in a way that shaped economic developments—what a war would mean in terms of national effort. It took us about a year after we had gone into the war in the spring of 1917 to get into the full swing of munition-making and shipbuilding, with our railroads, farms, and general resources all mobilized for war service. If Germany had held her fighting lines until the summer of 1919, our preparation as regards aircraft, ships, munitions, deadly gases, and all the new phases of the war that represented national power in an age of chemistry and electricity, would have been overwhelming. If another great war should occur, it would be still more deadly than the last in its resort to new instruments and methods. Europe is perfecting aircraft and inventing chemical surprises; and if Germany has lost her old weapons she may discover new ones of a far deadlier kind.

The attitude of the United States is altogether friendly; but as long as the world shows lack of willingness to accept peace in good faith, and prefers to rely upon force as the principle behind diplomatic maneuvers, it will not be safe for the United States to trust for its security to its own freedom from designs against the rights of other nations. The sinking of the German fleet was a long step towards a new order of things; but there are other steps that are necessary in logical sequence. A second step was taken when the Washington Conference, accepting the proposals of the United States Government, found a way to stop competitive naval expansion as regards capital ships. Such naval agreement should go much farther, until they lead to the definite abandonment of naval warfare and to co-operative plans for the policing of the seas at minimum cost. The next step should be the completion of a code of maritime international law to be ratified by all sea-faring nations. Then in due time the co-operative policing of the seas ought to be followed by the creation of a distinct ocean jurisdiction, with an international executive and with naval co-operation developed into an international navy, to maintain the freedom of the seas for the shipping and the commerce of all sea-faring nations.

THE MUCH DISCUSSED "WORLD COURT."

It is perhaps due to the long vacation of Congress, and the relative lack of material encountered by Washington correspondents and political writers, that the subject of our accepting membership in the existing Permanent Court of International Justice has been whipped up into the shape of a controversy that has taken on the semblance of something almost desperate in its urgency and its vital meaning. This country has always favored either temporary tribunals of arbitration for particular questions, or permanent tribunals on the Hague plan, or well constituted courts capable of dealing with justiciable matters to be voluntarily submitted. Our readers are well aware that an international court now exists, and that it sits at The Hague to deal with such questions as may be brought before it. It was one of those institutions that was advocated by the United States at the Paris Peace Conference. It might very well have been organized independently, as a development of the earlier Hague Tribunals; and the fuel that it has come into being is due not so much to the Paris peace conference as to those previous American efforts which resulted in the building that Mr. Carnegie's beneficence erected at The Hague, with a view to progressive internationalism in the form of courts of justice, as well as to frequent conference for the improvement of international law.

It happens that this particular court was provided for in the Covenant of the League of Nations. Its functioning, however, is in no way dependent upon the League. One of its most eminent judges is an American, the Hon. John Bassett Moore. The plans upon which it has been organized were made by a committee of publicists which included the Hon. Elihu Root. As matters now stand, the court is as available to the United States as if our Government was a member of the League of Nations. President Harding and our State Department believe that it would be a consistent and desirable thing for us to pay a share of the expenses of the court, and to take an official part from time to time in the formalities of filling vacancies on the bench. It is hard to find any weight in objections to our taking the advice of President Harding and Secretary Hughes in this matter. On the other hand, there is nothing pressing about the question, and nothing to get excited about. If we should be sending a case to that court, we would expect to pay court costs of various kinds. If we signed the protocol and were officially concerned in maintaining the court, we should have a bill to pay so trifling that it would not relieve the other nations of any conscious burden of expense. At the present time, Germany has a case under trial, and a temporary German judge is sitting.

If for some reason the President and Cabinet did not think it best for us just now to become officially connected with the court, the matter would bear postponement. But the Administration has taken what seems to us a position in full accord with America's previous record and approved sentiment.

THE END OF HIS PLEASANT LITTLE RIDE

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

The warm weather of the last few days is bringing out the boys' enthusiasm for camp. The Y. M. C. A. boys are planning for their second annual camp which will begin July 8 and last two weeks. Mr. John Bryan of Riverside Farm, has again offered his 500 acres of land and will turn over the farm to the boys.

The harvest is on about the court house. A mower, to which a team is hitched is being used to cut the grass which had grown up on the grounds in a most luxurious fashion.

Herbert Whittington, a graduate of the Xenia High School this year, has taken a position with the Pan Handle as car service clerk in the Xenia yards.

FRANCINE—You wish the history of "Honi soit qui maly pense." Well, the beautiful Countess of Salisbury, while minuetting at a ball given by Edward the Third, had the misfortune to lose one of her garters. The king found the blue ribbon, picked it up and placed it around his knee—he was in courtier's dress, of course—and danced with the ribbon in plain view—the cynosure of all neighboring eyes. A gossip whispered to the king that the identity of the garter might become known to the husband of the countess, and that, at any rate, the room was already buzzing with comment. King Edward, who would have his little joke, but preferred to utter his quips in French, merely replied "Honi soit qui maly pense," (Evil to him who evil thinketh), and continued to dance.

BEAUTY CHATS by EDNA KENT FORBES

ATTRACTIVE ARMS

To be attractive, the arms must be beautiful in contour, firm and with clear skin. The test really is the upper arm, which is so apt to be too fat or too thin, and the elbow, which so often looks uncared for.

If you yourself are overweight or underweight, you must try to become normally fleshy again. This takes time, of course, so in the meanwhile, by way of improvement, you can massage and exercise the arms to make them pretty. If you are 50 pounds overweight, no amount of arm exercises will take away the "leg of mutton" shape at the shoulders; if you are below weight, exercise can't put flesh on the bones above the elbow. But you can vary ten to 20 pounds either way, and, by exercise, still achieve beautiful arms.

Rowing, swimming, tennis and golf are the best of the outdoor sports for this. If none of these are available, join a gymnasium if you can, or stand at your mirror and do exercises by yourself. Any sort that tense the muscles are good, especially if combined with deep breathing.

To improve the skin nothing is better than starch paste. This can be either the cold water paste made with laundry starch, spread on and allowed to stay half an hour or so, or else the cooked starch used the same way. The cold water kind I think a little better.

Before washing the arms, rub them with olive oil or cleansing cream, scrub this out with soap and water. Use oatmeal soap, which is bleaching, and rub vanishing cream into the elbows of they are rough or dark. Such little treatments will do wonders for your arms.

V. Discouraged—There is nothing unusual about your case, as most women are more developed on one side than the other. Dress so the difference is nott noticable.

J. C. W.—You are merely temporarily depleted from the tonsilitis, and a few weeks of pleasant weather will likely bring you up to par again. Drink plenty of milk and go out into the sunshine all that you can.

READER—Any cream is nourishing that contains vegetable oils or animal fats, but the latter should never be used on the complexion unless there is not the slightest tendency to superfluous hair growth. The creams that do not nourish have mineral oil in them.

BEFORE ONE KNOWS

There is one thing that never stops—even for the fraction of a second—and that is time. On and on it goes.

And before one knows, hours—days—years have gone by.

But there must be no reason for regret or worry. The thought that this minute, this hour, this day shall never come to us again should spur us to renewed effort to make it mean something—to make it count for something in its relation to the minutes, days and years yet to come.

To one dead in earnest time is only a medium of cooperation into which are to be melted his best efforts.

But before one knows, even the most important tasks have given way to time, and left us with so much undone—unattempted.

Plan to get the fullest possible happiness out of what you do right now. Then keep thinking ahead—picturing the thrills that are sure to come with the things to do that follow your present efforts.

Few great workers ever accomplish but a fraction of what they most desire. But the fact that they are continually planning far, far into the future is evidence of their present worth and sincerity.

Always have something important to do—even though it may be no more than to think happy thoughts. We little dream of the lives that are enriched by just this.

But take time to be kind, to live, to learn and to love. Because before one knows, the chance for all of these may be gone forever.

ODOR OF ETHER IN AMERICAN LEGION ROOMS ANNOUNCES SERIES OF OPERATIONS

The odor of ether prevailed over the vicinity of the American Legion rooms, at Second and Detroit Streets. Thursday and Friday, when twenty-seven children from all over the county were operated upon for the removal of tonsils and adenoids. The free clinic was held under the auspices of the Greene County Chapter of the Red Cross.

The clinic, the second conducted by the Red Cross chapter during the past year, was held on Thursday and Friday mornings, to accommodate the large group of patients.

Local physicians and nurses gave their services to the cause which they say constitutes a step in overcoming the advance of disease in the county. Twelve children were operated on Thursday morning, by Drs. Reed Madden, P. D. Espey, assisted by Drs W. A. Galloway and R. H. Grube, all of Xenia.

Miss Helen Evers. Red Cross nurse was assisted Thursday by the Misses Matilda Evers, Helen Maxey, Cora Mc Donald, of ths city and Mildred Stewart, and Gertrude Carr, of Yellow Springs, Mrs. Robert Terrell, Xenia, and Mrs. C. N. Smith, New Jasper, The Rev. W. H. Tilford, chairman, of the Greene County Chapter of the Red Cross, with Mrs. W. O. Custis and Mrs. Milton McKay, both of this city, aided in the work Thursday. The Rev. Mr. Tilford assisted both days as did Ernest Pummell, American Legion member.

A larger group, fifteen children, was operated on Friday by Drs. W. H. Finley, Reed Madden, W. M. Hartinger Spring Valley, and C. G. McPherson. Drs. Kent Finley, George Davis of this city, while Drs. L. L. Taylor of Yellow Springs and R. L. Haines, of Paintersville gave the anesthetic. The assistant nurses Friday were the Misses Matilda Evers, Cora McDonald, of this city, Mildred Fisher. Mrs. M. R. Snodgrass, Miss Helen Fisher, Mrs. Ernest Schmidt, Mrs. J. W. Stevens all of this city, and Mrs. C. N. Smith of New Jasper.

D. D. Jones, druggist, furnished ice cream to the patients both days. The cots were furnished by the Galloway and Cherry and R. D. Adair Furniture Stores.

The Red Cross officials Friday expressed their appreciation to the American Legion Post for the use of the rooms, and to the doctors and their assistants who furnished their services.

CABLE MESSAGE USED IN CASE

White Plains, N. Y., June 29.—Refusing attorneys for Walter S. Ward, millionaire slayer of Clarence Peters, former marine, further delay, Justice Robert E. Waggener today ordered the famous "Hap-Dad" cable message placed before the grand jury investigating Peters' death.

Attorneys for the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies, went into the grand jury room with the messages. Whether they will obey the court ruling could not be learned.

The messages were sent to George Ward, father of the younger man, by both Walter Ward and Ralph Ward, another son. The cables are addressed to "Dad," and are signed "Hap" and "Tip Top,"—the necknames of Ward's sons.

GAS ORDINANCE IS TABLED UNTIL NEXT COMMISSION MEET

An ordinance to establish a 50-cent service charge monthly for each consumer of gas, requested by The Ohio Fuel Gas Company, was placed on its first reading by the City Commission at its meeting Thursday night.

The commission talked of the proposed ordinance for some time before it was tabled for discussion at the next meeting, when it will be up for passage. In the meantime City Solicitor J. A. Finney and members of the commission will conduct an investigation of the company's financial standing and of the operation of the ordinance in other cities.

The newly paved street, North Detroit from Fairground Avenue to the corporation line was accepted by the commission and a motion passed to notify the county commissioners the street is ready. W. F. Foster, Dayton, consulting engineer for the city in the paving work, told commissioner he believed the finished street to be a good job.

Rules and regulations to govern plumbers tampering with lines of the Municipal Water Department will be presented at the next commission meeting at the suggestion of City Auditor T. H. Zell. Auditor Zell told commissioners that when water subscribers fail to pay their bills their water supply is cut off. Investigation, however, he said, showed that plumbers frequently turn the water on witout notifying the department. The proposed rules and regulations will probably place plumbers under a surety bond with penalty of forfeit of license for violation. An ordinance will follow later, it is said.

RADIO PROGRAM TO FEATURE MEETING

Members of the Junior Men's Club, of the First M. E. Church and their friends are invited to attend the meeting, to be held at the home of Albert Tucker, on South Detroit Street, Monday at 7:30 o'clock.

The meeting has been planned by a committee composed of Albert Tucker Joe Brahm, and Douglas Custis, in order to arouse interest and to gain new members. Douglas Custis is teacher of the class and Austin Black, president.

A radio program with a feed will be features of the evening.

CHAUTAUQUA SITE BEING CONSIDERED

Further plans for another successful Chautauqua season, which will open in Xenia Sunday, July 15, were laid at a meeting of the executive board, in the portable building in the rear of the old Central School building, Thursday evening.

The site committee, composed of Harper C. Pendry, D. J. Hollencamp, and the Rev. Mr. Tilford, reported the selection of several possible sites, and will make a more definite report at a future meeting.

The seven-day-advertizing man, will arrive in Xenia, next Friday, to prepare for the Chautauqua. Prospects are favorable for a good season, according to members of the executive committee. Seven hundred tickets have been distributed over the city.

Powder this way—let skin breathe and stay young

Wrong powdering stops skin breathing, science warns

The reason that 7 women in 9 have aged, unlovely skin is that they clog pores, by wrong powdering.

For Science now says that skin must breathe to stay young, and pretty. This breathing is done through the pores—and it cannot go on if pores are covered air-tight, and clogged.

Beauty lies in true skin

The color and beauty of skin is held by the "derma cutis" or true skin, which is covered by the outer skin. By breathing, this true skin rids itself of impurities—through the pores.

Correct powdering

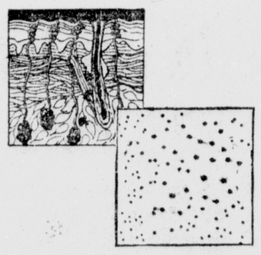

The day is coming when women will not use cosmetics, but will again depend upon natural complexion beauty for charm. What of your skin, then?

Now Science has found a powder which always lets skin breathe—use it heavily as you wish. It is superlatively fine, dainty, clinging—yet air can pass through it, skin can breathe. FREEMAN'S is the name of this delightful powder, which is recommended by beauty specialists everywhere.

Special two-weeks' offer

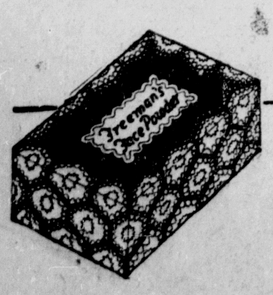

As a means of getting you to test the truth of these statements, we are making an unusual offer—for two weeks. We will sell you a 75c box of FREEMAN'S NEW FACE POWDER for only 59c. And with each box you buy, we'll give you FREE, a full-size package of FREEMAN'S Talc.

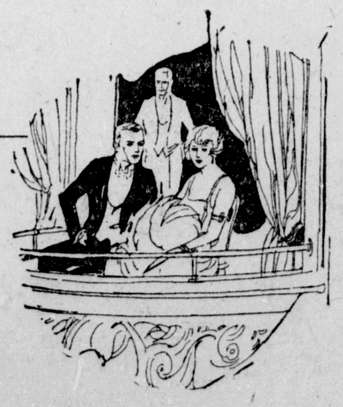

Accept this generous offer today. Learn what improvement comes by letting your skin breathe—how quickly that satiny, youthful freshness returns. Don't for another day injure your skin by wrong powdering!

These are microscopic views of your skin—one in cross-section, one of the surface. They show the breathing "apparatus" of the skin: the pores. These tiny pores—"mouths"—are so small that there are 1,200 of them to the square inch. So you see how easily they can be clogged—and all skin breathing stopped.

BRADFUTE ASSERTS FARMERS ANXIOUS TO FIND MARKETS

Cincinnati, O., June 29.—O. E. Bradfute of Xenia, O., made a strong plea here last night for a strong merchant marine service.

Asserting that it is not fair to require private ship owners to operate their vessels in competition with government owned ships, having back of them the U. S. treasury, former Senator Atlee Pomerene of Canton, renewed his allegiance to the American merchant marine and said the American people want it.

Edward C. Plummer of Bath, Me., one of the commissioners of the United States Shipping board, was also a speaker at the dinner which closed the first days session of the Farmer-Manufacturer Foreign Trade conference, which was held under the auspices of the Middlewest Foreign Trade and Merchant Marine committee.

Twenty-one states of the middlewest south and southwestern states were represented at the conference in addition to which there were the executives of farm organizations and associations of ship owners, ship builders, ship operators and some 20 commercial bodies.

Mr. Bradfute said that in framing a program for the next merchant marine bill "we should steer clear of controversial questions and find out where we all can find a common ground." He stressed the magnitude of the agricultural industry in America and said that the million farmers of every type which his organization represented were eager to do anything feasible which would result in the finding of a steady market for American farm products in foreign countries.

"We can frame a ship bill without asking for government subsidy or for the direct operation of ships by the government which will be an all-American idea for the interest of the nation as a whole," he said.

Winthrop L. Marvin, New York, vice president and general manager of the American Steamship Owners' associa- whose members operate 700 ships, speaking at the afternoon session, declared even if foreign ships carried American goods more cheaply than American vessels it would be better to trust American goods to shippers who had the interests of American business at heart.

H. C. Hunter, New York, counsel of the American shipbuilders' association will be pleased to support any reasonable measures the people of the nation may united on for the upbuilding of the merchant marine.

The conference adopted a resolution presented by L. J. Folse, manager of the Mississippi Development Board representing the governor of Mississippi in which he protested against ship monopoly either by American or foreign owners and also urged that ships in the hands of the United States shipping board be held and not sold at this time.

WOMAN LOSES LIFE.

Youngstown, O., June 29.—Mrs. Michael F. Hyland, wife of the clerk of city council, was fatally crushed and two other persons were seriously injured when three automobiles were ditched on a hill one mile east of Lake Milton. Mrs. Hyland died later in a local hospital.

KNIGHT TAKES POT SHOT AT MEASURE

Portsmouth, O., June 28.—Speaking here last night before the Exchange Club, former Representative Charles L. Knight, of Akron, took a pot shot at the Taft-Albaugh taxation bill, condemned the world court and attacked "state socialism." He described the Taft bill as "that polyglot performance in which a mouse labored and a taxation mount was bor."

The so-called budget system set up under this legislation, he said, "will cost the people of Ohio a million each year and will provide them with nothing they do not now have."

HOUGH RECOGNIZED

Columbus, June 29.—Benson W. Hough was extended federal recognition as major general of the Ohio national guard, it was announced from Washington. In accepting Hough as the first head of the Ohio guard, the war department ratifies his nomination recently by Governor Donahey and ends an interregnum existing since the militia board declined to accept the nomination of General George Florence.

Almost every kitchen garden has its row of peas. And lucky is the housewife who has enough peas to can as well as to serve on the table. Peas are a little more difficult to can than the other vegetables, but success can be gained by following these directions carefully:

To Can Peas—Use only fresh, young peas. Gather them in the early morning if possible and can them at once. At least do not let them stand long after shelling. Sort them over, putting peas of the same size together. Be sure not to use hard, ripe peas among very tender ones. This is important, because the very young, tender peas need scarcely more than two minutes of blanching, whereas the very old ones may need 20 minutes of blanching.

For ordinary, tender peas, however, blanch from three to eight minutes—three minutes for the small ones and eight minutes for the larger. This blanching water should contain one teaspoon of baking soda to every gallon. "Cold-dip" the peas in water containing one tablespoon of salt to every gallon, let them remain in this salty water from 20 to 30 seconds. Drain and pack in sterilized glass jars.

Do not pack your jars too full of the peas, as that may cause them to burst during the processing, thus making a cloudy liquor. Put one and one-half level teaspoons of salt and sugar (mixed) into each quart-size jar. Cover the peas in the jar with boiling water to within one-fourth inch of top, place a new rubber on the jar-rim and adjust glass cover.

Processing—The Intermittent Method of processing has been found safer for peas (as well as for asparagus, beans and corn) than the One-Period Method. By the Intermitten Method the jar of peas is boiled in the canner for one hour on each of three successive days. During each of these three periods of boiling the top wire is up over the glass cap, but the side wire is not pressed down, at the end of the boiling period the jar is; completely sealed—that is, the wire is pressed down and the jar is taken from the wash-boiler canner and allowed to stand over night in ordinary room temperature. In the morning the side wire is raised so that the jar can be boiled, or "processed," exactly as it was before. After the third processing, the side wire is pressed down permanently, the jar inverted to cool and test for leaks, then labeled and stored. It will pay the housekeeper to go to this trouble of processing the jar on three successive days, for by so doing she will not lose a jar through spoilage.

YOUNG SLAYER TALKS.

Lancaster, O., June 29.—Fred C. Mills of Akron, ward at the Boys' Industrial school here, related to officers the details of how he had killed Officer John H. Carshner of the institution. "I didn't mean to do it," the boy declared, "I only wanted to stun him so I could go home to my mother." Mills, in jail here, was bound over to the grand jury under $10,000 on a charge of murder.

THE MISFIT

By Jane Phelps

HORACE VISITS MR. MARSHALL

Chapter XXXIV

Natalie's emotions were curiously mixed as she hurried away from Horace's proximity. He was still searching for her, despite her letter, else why should he go to Etta's? It was going to be hard to elude him if she remained in New York, yet she felt she must remain. She had a good position, better than she could hope to obtain elsewhere. In the small town where her mother lived there was no chance for her, and they could not afford to support her at home. But underneath was a certain thrill of gladness. Horace cared a little for her or he would make no effor to find her. And when once again she reached her home, no thought of Craig Harper came to her, of the pleasant hour they had spent; only Horace was in her mind, and her heart cried out for him, for his love.

Impatient with herself, she finally said aloud:

"I've got to stop thinking about him. He didn't care enough to try to make me happy. His mother was the only person he really thought about. I meant nothing in that house. Oh, if we could only have had a little place like Etta's, all to ourselves!" And Natalie's impatience with herself did not prevent her from crying herself to sleep. Seeing Horacce had brought back very vividly thoughts of the time when he loved her, his many kindnesses.

But with the coming of another day she was able to smile grimly at her emotion. She had deliberately chosen her path, she would walk in it, and without looking back.

Horace had gone to Etta's forlornly hoping he might learn something of Natalie. He missed her more and more as the days passed. He and his mother disagreed more frequently than they ever before had done. She urged him constantly to do nothing, let people forget.

"If you'll just say nothing, do nothing for a time, you can then quietly divorce her for desertion; and no one will think anything of it," Mrs. Crandell urged.

Mrs. Crandell was not a bad woman, in many respects she was a very good one. She was generous, gave a great deal to different charities, gave of her time as well as her money. But, in her estimation, not only had Horace married beneath him, he had married a misfit, a girl who could not measure up in any particular to what a Crandell's wife should be.

She had tolerated Natalie because she must. But now that of her own free will she had left them, Mrs. Crandell could not conceive of any reason why her son should want her back. So she grew impatient when she learned he was still searching for her, that he wanted her to return. And her attitude often made Horace wonder if Natalie had put up with more than he had realized.

Disappointed, Horace turned from his futile ringing at Etta's door bell. With his head dropped, unseeing, he went slowly away, unconscious that she he sought was watching him.

The very next day he went to his lawyer, Mr. Marshall.

Fortunately for Natalie's secret, Mr. Marshall was busy and Horace sent in his name with a request for a few moments' audience as soon as possible.

"It's come!" Natalie said, as she heard.

"You may go, Miss Horton," her employer said, a meaning look on his face. Natalie slipped out of a private entrance, her heart beating so madly she was sure Mr. Marshal could hear.

Mr. Marshall, while glad to have Natalie back, had more than once felt guilty because of hiring her, and had talked seriously with her about returning to Horace. But finding her determined had satisfied himself by saying:

"I suppose if she is determined to work I may as well benefit as another."

Horace was with Mr. Marshall for some time. Natalie waited in trembling anxiety until he should leave. She felt quite sure he would speak of her, even though he might have called upon other business.

She was not mistaken. Scarcely had he left when Mr. Marshall rang for her.

"I must have a serious talk with yo Mrs. Horton—Mrs. Crandell," he sai "Mr. Crandell has confided in me, y I do not think I shall abuse his co fidence if I tell you something of wha he said."

Natalie braced herself to hear, an —to adhere to her determination.

Cooking With Gas

Because natural gas is concentrated heat, being about twice the value of the best manufactured gas, it will do more cooking than most people get out of it.

With the right appliances natural gas is the cheapest and most satisfactory fuel known. The right cooking appliance will always give a short, blue flame when adjusted properly. It is not necessary that this flame go up around the cooking utensil, but it is necessary to have its tip close to the bottom of the utensil.

Gaining Efficiency

Consequently all burners should be not over 1 1-4 inches from the cooking surface, and should be kept clean and carefully regulated to give the right flame, this regulation being accomplished by the valve and the air shutters. A yellow flame is always wasteful; a flame that roars is equally wasteful.

Solid tops on cooking ranges waste much gas, the heat being deflected away from the cooking. Natural gas should always be burned with skeleton lids. Right appliances properly cared for not only give better results, but also make the gas bills less.

U. S. BUSINESS FACES NEW ERA SAYS HARDING

President Delivers Optimistic Address Friday In Butte, Mont.

ADMINISTRATION AID

Government Had Strong Hand in Prosperity's Return

Butte, Mont., June 29.—President Harding brought into the Northwest today an optimistitc and militant message to American business. To a great crowd of thousands that packed closely around the rear platform of his train here he declared the miracle wrought by America's mobilization for war had found its counterpart in the mobilization of business during the menacing depresson of two years ago and, going further, he asserted American business now stands only in the doorway of a new era.

"No other nation in the world," said the President, "looks out upon so clear a horizon today."

The President's address was devoted entirely to a survey of world business conditions and a militant defense of the business record of the administration and the manner in which it led the country through the great economic depression that followed the war.

Disavowing partisanship in thus presenting the administration's policies, the President attributed the recovery to the "plain, old fashioned common sense" of the American business man, aided by an administration at Washington that indulged in no fads and fancies of government paternalism.

DEFLATION FOLLOWED.

"Inflation and extravagaece," he said, "had continued for a time following the cessation of hostilities, to be succeeded suddenly by drastic deflation. Excessess of production and expenditure were suddenly followed by impossible restrictions on both. Disaster fell upon business and unemployment was everywhere. Two years ago between 4,500,000 and 5,000,000 workers were without jobs.

I will not discuss the unfortunate policies which brought on this, but suffice it to say today we have to consider ways and means of filling a million jobs which want workers and can't find them.

"That is the bedrock foundation upon which American business and American administration have erected their confidence that this people will not be led into the paths of devious experimentation, the mazes of untried economic theory and the labyrinths of doctrinaire altruism.

"Early in the spring of 1921 it was realized by those in responsible places that unless measures of amelioration were adopted and business were given some ground for hope the winter would be marked by privation and suffering to a scale unprecedented in the history of our people.

"These conditions involved a menace to society. Europe was torn with distractions and revolutions, distressed with the fear of future wars and burdened with debt. A small minority of extremists sought to draw our own country into the maelstrom of social disorganization."

He compared conditions in the U. to those existing in Europe and said:

"If we are accused of getting nowhere in particular, we may reply at any rate we have been able to say right here, that we regard it as a good place to stay and that day by day we are getting better and better.

"A good many folks have had more excitement than we have had, but a good many people in this world would be glad to exchange their excitement for a modest share in our American accumulation of simple contentment and dinner table necessities."

Those who believe the business and economic situation in America had bad were invited by Mr Harding to look upon conditions in other countries. Many of them, he pointed out, indulged in experiments of a radical nature with disastrous results to their currency and credit stability, as well as a harvest of violence and disorder.

"Instead of riots, strikes, sabotage and preachments of revolution,' said the president, "we reaped a harvest of understanding, of established respect among groups and enhanced regard for each others viewpoints."

No other nation in the world, he added, has been able to parallel the pace time recovery of American business. The president painted a gloomy picture of business and economic conditions when his adminis-

Daugherty, United States attorney general, who appeared in court.

BIG MARATHAN PLANE IS WRECKED

CHARGES GERMANY IS MAKING THOUSANDS OF BOMBING PLANES FOR USE IN NEXT WAR

Captain Rene Fonch, France's Greatest Living "Ace" Declares Aircraft Being Built By Germans With Intention of Conversion Into War Instruments

Paris, June 28—Under the guise of commercial aviation, Germany is constructing thousands of bombing plans for use in "the next war" if was charged today by Captain Rene Fonck, France's greatest living 'ace,' a member of the chamber of deputies and president of the Aviation League of France.

Fonck emergered from the great war with more honors than any other French airman.

Writing in the Journal, Fonck said:

"If we had disarmed Germany on land and in the air as England disarmed her upon the seas, we should now be secure. But we left to the Germans the right of commercial aviation.

"One clause of the Versailles treaty provides a minimum horsepower engine for all German airplanes. The Germans ostensibly fulfill these conditions, but they build their planes so ruggedly that by a quick transformation, they can easily substitute a motor of double horsepower. Thus a metallic limousine-like Junker-Dessau quickly becomes an effective bombing plane."

An inter-allied aviation control commission, soon after the armistice, forbade all aviation construction in Germany. But since May 5th, 1922, almost all regulations have been lifted. An interallied commission stationed in Berlin still exercises nominal control over German aviation, but this will be withdrawn in 1925.

"German aviation factories have branches in Switzerland, Italy, Holland, Spain and Russia," Captain Fonck asserts. "But Germany's greatest effort is concentrated in Russia. German engineers in Moscow, Petrograd, Odessa and Alexandrovsk oversee soviet workers who construct aviation engines and wings from materials imported from Germany."

Fonck does not ask that Germany be forbidden to construct airplanes. He simply pleads that France build enough planes to successfully combat any German menace that may result.

MINERS DEMANDS ON OPERATORS TO BE ISSUED SOON

Will Embrace 20 Per Cent Wage Increase and Eight Hour Day.

Scranton, Pa. June 29—Demands which are to be presented to the hard coal operators by representatives of the United Mine Workers, are expected to be completed late today by the convention of the anthracite workers now in session here.

These demands, embracing mainly a 20 per cent wage increase, the check off and a universal eight-hour day, are a continuation of those formulated at the Shamokin conference a year ago, but which failed of approval by the operators in the temporary settlement last fall.

President John L. Lewis is said to favor a renewal of the present scale under a two-year contract and he is cautiously guiding the work of the convention against any false step or disturbing act which might endanger negotiations soon to begin with the operators.

The miners are anxious to avoid a suspension this fall and belief prevails that there will be no cessation of work. Lewis is particularly anxious to conclude the convention's work here quickly and get negotiations with the operators under way as soon as possible after July 4.

TWO MISSIONARIES DROWNED IN CHINA

Tiffin, O., June 29.—Edmund Winters, 25, and James A. Laubach, 24, Tiffin missionaries for the Reform Church at Yochow, China, were drowned in a lake near that city, friends here learned today.

Both missionaries graduated from Heidelberg University, Laubach former Tiffin high school instructor was engaged to marry Miss Helen Ruff, of Barberton, a classmate. She had her passport and had planned to sail July 6, for China, where the marriage was to take place.

Winters, shortly before he sailed for China, married Miss Annetta Herbster ,of Prospect, Ohio, also a classmate.

Details were lacking in the message except that the missionaries were cruising on a lake. They were teachers in Huping College.

TWO AVIATORS ESCAPE DEATH IN CALIFORNIA

Machine in Air Almost 24 Hours Makes Forced Landing

San Diego, Cal., June 29.—Captain Lowell Smith and Lieutenant John B. Richter narrowly escaped death when in a forced landing their big De Haviland marathon plane turned completely over at Rockwell Field. The machine was badly damaged, but the two intrepid aviators who had been in the air for almost 24 hours, crawled out virtually uninjured.

A damaged crankshaft caused the forced landing and abandonment of the attempt to fly 100 hours without pause. The landing was made just six minutes short of 24 hours after the plane had taken off yesterday in its record making attempt.

The plane came down with honors, though as the 2,500 kilometer, 3,000 and 3,500 kilometer records are believed to have been broken for speed and possibly others. These records were held by Lieutenants MacReady and Kelly, having been hung up at Dayton, Ohio, in the T-2 last fall.

ANGLO-AMERICAN FRICTION OVER LIQUOR CONTROVERSY IS FEARED

Declarations By British Statesmen In House of Lords Put More Serious Aspect Upon Issue Troubling Two Nations.

London, June 29—Declarations by British statesmen in the House of Lords put a more serious aspect today upon the Anglo-American controversy over liquor seizures by American customs officials from English ships in United States home waters.

Lord Curzon's statement on the liquor question was interpreted as an indication that British public opinion will not permt any "great concessions."

This was followed by a statement from Viscount Grey, ex-foreign secretary who fears Anglo-American friction, perhaps of a serious nature, unless the two governments hasten a statement of the dry issue. It was revealed through official channels that Great Britain will not accept Washington's suggestion for a 12-mile limit for search of ships suspected of liquor smuggling. New diplomatic representations are being made to the United States upon this subject.

Lord Curzon holds that the controversy should be left entirely to formal diplomacy for settlement.

A parliamentary committee is now studying the problem of alleged liquor smugling from Great Britain to American territorial waters. Vigorous steps may be taken to stop it. In this event Great Britain will expect concessions from America in regard to the beverage liquors on passenger carrying liners, especially where such liquor is taken into American ports under seal as a pledge it will not be drunk nor taken ashore while the vessels are in American territorial waters.

GRANDFATHER WINS IN CONTEST FOR GIRL WHO IS TAKEN OFF TRAIN HERE

It was up to him to decide whether Susanna Bailey, 16, colored, should be consigned to the care of her grandfather, Willam Morris, 407 Compton Street, Dayton or to her step-father, George A. Bailey, of Washington C. H. Grandpa won.

Susanna was taken from a west bound Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train Thursday afternoon by Sheriff Morris Sharp and Deputy George Spencer. Washington police said she was running away from her home there and bound for Dayton. The girl said she was reared from infancy by her grandparents in Dayton but went to Washington last fall to care for her mother who was ill.

Three times she said her grandparents sent money for her return but she was never permitted to go. Then they sent her the money direct and told her to board a train. She was on her way to Dayton when taken off here. Both step-father and grandfather arrived shortly afterward and bid for her possession. Neither had papers. So she was released to Grandfather Morris who took her to Dayton.

PRESIDENT AND BORAH IN ACCORD

Boise, Ida., June 29.—President Harding and Senator Borah are now in complete accord as to the method by which the United States may become a member of an international tribunal. This method calls for recognition of the fact that the United States never will have anything to do with the league of nations and complete divorcement of the court from the league. Senator Borah declared here he was entirely willing to support any plan for the setting up of a world court which would be completely independent of the league, provided, however, that the United States should never be without at least one member of the court.

DONAHEY UPHELD IN MAYOR CASE BY HIGH COURT

REFUSES MANDAMUS

Columbus, June 29.—Ohio supreme court sustained Governor Donahey in the removal of H. H. Vogt as mayor of Massillon for failure to enforce the prohibition laws.

The decision was made in two suits, one for writ of mandamus to compel the governor to reinstate Vogt and one to oust Mayor Kirchhoffer, who as president of council become mayor when Vogt was removed.

The court refused the writ in each case, six judges, Marshall, Wanamaker, Day, Allen, Robinson and Mathias concurring. Judge Jones dissented.

The court's decision upholds the constitutionality of the law, giving the governor power to remove mayors and at the same time holds that Donahey was justified on the evidence submitted in removing Vogt.

POINTS OUT NEED OF YANKEE SHIPS FOR WORLD TRADE

Plummer Says America Must Have Her Share of Business.

Cincinnati, June 29.—Condemnation of unfair British shipping contracts and a strong demand that the United States claim its fair part of world trade were voiced here by Commissioner E. C. Plummer of the shipping board before the Middle West Foreign Trade convention.

Plummer's subject was: "Why our farmers and merchants need American ships." He opposed putting the government out of the shipping business and predicted federal operation until such time as private concerns offer a fair price for its vessels. He attacked the argument that private freight-carrying lines are seriously hurt by government competition.

"Cutting out the Caribbean service and the liners which handle mail," he declared, "there are only 22 large American flag freight ships engaged in our foreign trade. Is a fleet of 1,300 steel ships, owned by you and the other people of this country, plus the trade of a great nation, to be sacrificed or hampered in order that 22 ships may be allowed to do an infinitesimal part of the foreign trade of this country at a price satisfactory to our commercial competitors?"

MRS. S. J. BACON DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. Sarah Jones Bacon, a well known resident of this city, passed away Friday afternoon at two o'clock at her home on Hill Street. Miss Bacon had been in failing health for the last three years from complication which followed influenza and for several weeks her condition had been serious but she had not been noticably worse until just a few minutes before her death when she suddenly lapsed into unconsciousness.

Mrs. Bacon, who was seventy years of age at the time of her death, was the daughter of George W. and Jane Brown Jones. She was born and reared on a farm near Xenia but for many years had made her home in this city. She was a member of the First Reformed church in this city.

She is survived by one brother, Mr. Frank Jones, of Waynesville and by three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Frank, of Oakland, Calif., Mrs. Jerome Jones, of Hutchinson, Kan. and Mrs. Fanny Merrick, of Seattle, Wash. She also leaves several nephews and nieces. Miss Louise Reynolds, Dr. Eber Reynolds, Mr. Arthur Reynolds and Miss Nelle Cherry are the only ones residing in this city.

Arrangements for the funeral services will be announced later.

ORDERS PAYROLL HELD UP.

Columbus, June 29.—Governor Donahey instructed Finance Director Baker to hold up the payroll for Attorney General Crabbe's department until H. H. Griswold, special counsel there, returns $583.30 said to be due the state. This amount represents what Griswold drew as representative after he had been named special counsel, Donahey says, and he refuses to allow him to draw two salaries for the same period of time.

ETHEL BARRYMORE SEEKING DIVORCE

Ethel Barrymore, WNU

Ethel Barrymore, one of the most famous of American actresses, has filed suit in Providence, Rhode Island, for a divorce from Russell G. Colt, her multi-millionaire husband, from whom she has been separated since 1920. They have three children. The couple were married in 1909.

NOT GUILTY IS PLEA ENTERED BY WHITFIELD

Alleged Slayer is Arraigned In Cleveland Friday Morning

Cleveland, O., June 29.—John L. Whitfield, charged with the murder of Patrolman Dennis Griffin here May 11, entered a plea of not guilty when he was arraigned before Common Pleas Judge Bernon today.

Whitfield was held without bail and the trial set for July 23.

A special venire of jurors will be called at once from which will be selected the jury to try Whitfield.

The courtroom was packed but there was no demonstration.

Whitfield's attorneys asked the privilege of changing the plea later in case they think it advisable. This was regarded as significant in face of the rumor that Whitfield would enter a plea of guilty to second degree murder to escape danger of death in the electric chair.

First degree murder carries with it a penalty of death.

It was declared the state would accept no plea of guilty to lower than first degree murder. The prosecutor's office will make every effort to secure the extreme penalty against the alleged slayer of Griffin.

Whitfield has refused to eat since his confinement here, following the arrest in Detroit.

In Whitfield's refusal to eat the authorities see an attempt on his part to be transferred from the jail cell to a hospital, where he could possibly make another escape.

GOVERNMENT IS HESITATING TO CHANGE POLICY

Anxious to Avoid Unreasonable Action in Liquor Issue

REGULATIONS MADE

Washington, June 29—Anxious to avoid any unreasonable action in the ship liquor controversy which might lead to retaliation by Great Britain or other powers, the government still hesitated today in altering its policy of enforcing the Volstead act within American territorial waters, although prohibition officials continued to insist that seizure of foreign liquor carrying ships should be ordered to stop violations.

Regulations providing for the libeling of foreign vessels and the arrest of captains on charges violating the national prohibition act have been prepared by Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes, but they cannot be promulgated or put into effect until they have the formal approval of acting Secretary of the Secretary of the Treasury S. P. Gilbert.

Thus far Secretary Gilbert has declined to approve the regulations, because he believed, with state department officials, that drastic enforcement of the law was not necessary at this time and expected that illegal importation of liquor would be halted pending the completion of negotiations started by Secretary Hughes to iron out difficulties arising from the supreme court's bone dry decision.

Apparently however, the Hughes proposals, which contemplated the extension of this government's right of search and seizure from three to twelve miles, are not acceptable to Great Britain, notice to this effect having already been given in London by the British foreign minister, although the United States has not been officially advised of the attitude of the British government.

If Great Britain approved the American suggestion of the extension of the three mile limit, the State Department proposed to permit the entrance of beverage liquor under seal, but a flat turndown of the proposition advanced by this government will mean that the treasury department will have to proceed with the seizure of all non-medicinal liquor brought into the United States until Congress has an opportunity six months hence to amend the Volstead act.

Seizure of liquor by this government is not regarded by foreign powers as constituting a cause for retaliatory action against the U. S. but high officials of the state and treasury departments are of the opinion that the seizure of vessels would be attacked as unwarranted while diplomatic negotiations were in progress.

ALLEGED LEADER OF LIQUOR RING HERE IS ARRESTED BY LOCAL AUTHORITIES

Bert Blair Taken Into Custody by Sheriff's Office Charged With Conspiracy to Violate Volstead Law—Removed to Dayton

Bert Blair, 50, of 517 North West Street, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs John Baughn and George Spencer, at noon Friday on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Volstead law.

Blair was taken to Dayton immediately by Deputy U. S. Marshall Carson Pratt of Dayton, who had been sent for by Greene County authorities to take him before the U. S. District Court in that city.

Officials here say Blair has been the directing genius in a liquor ring in the county, which they declare included control of a number of stills and the handling of the liquor manufactured.

Sheriff Morris Sharp and Deputy John Baughn, working in conjunction with Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson it is said have made numerous attempts to obtain evidence against Blair on the basis of reports that had come to the office. All raids were fruitless, until recently when a raid conducted on the home of Bert Coons, Hoop road, Caesarcreek Township, by Sheriff Sharp is said to have led to information which resulted in Blair's arrest.

One of the most complete stills ever taken in the county was confiscated by the authorities when Coons was arrested. Coons was fined by Magistrate J. E. Jones in the sum of $800 on a charge of possessing liquor, authorities began the investigation that led to the arrest of Blair.

Federal prohibition agents were consulted by the sheriff's office and the prosecutor in the investigation and when the evidence was prepared Deputy U. S. Marshall Pratt was summon On his arrival, the sheriff's office started on a still hunt for Blair. Deputies Baughn and Spencer arrested him at noon at the Greene County Fairgrounds. He offered no resistance. Shortly afterward he was taken to Dayton by Commissioner Pratt.

Blair will be arraigned in U. S. District Court and will be given a trial before a federal jury authorities say. If convicted he stands to face a term in the federal penitentiary.

PAYS FINE AFTER CHARGE IS FILED

Boss Hutch, 50, of Gladstone, was fined $10 and costs Thursday when he entered a plea of guilty on a charge of assault and battery before Magistrate J. E. Jones.

Hutch is said to have struck James Thompson. He said Thompson called him a liar. "When you get a warrant for me call me up and I'll come right down," Hutch told Sheriff Morris Sharp. The sheriff did. Shortly afterward Hutch made his appearance, pleaded guilty and paid his fine.

FINED BY MAGISTRATE

Ed Berry, 46, Dennison, Ohio, was fined $50 and costs by Magistrate J. E. Jones Thursday when arraigned on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct. Berry is said to be an employe of the Pennsylvania railroad at Dennison and went to Cincinnati on a company pass. He was said to be drunk and annoying passengers when he was taken from the train here by Railroad Detective Latimer Wednesday night.

U. S. BUSINESS IS FACING NEW ERA SAYS PRESIDENT

FEAR FOR CIVILIZATION

"Earnest men in Europe were solemnly discussing whether civilization would survive and thoughtful people everywhere recognized that if America should be swept into the vortex the disaster would be irreparable. I shall not tell you about the many anxious hours the cabinet devoted to these conditions.

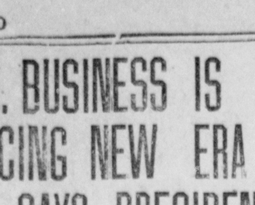

"Many sincere people pleaded that the government provide unemployment doles from the public treasury. That policy had been adopted in many European countries with results which did not commend themselves. We believed it could and should be avoided. We based our belief on certain convictions about that unique combination of altruism and common sense of generosity and hard headedness which always has been characteristic of Americans. The government proceeded to do everything in its power to better conditions. The policy of public finance had kept the hand of government in the tills of bankers filching away from them resources which business so desperately needed, was reversed. Business was given a tardy chance to get the money it needed. A series of reductions in the federal reserve discount rate was inaugurated. Sagacious and sometimes unpopular gentlemen were set at work pruning down the personnel and expenditure of government.

SUDGET INAUGURATED

"The budget system was inaugurated. Measures were adopted to lighten the taxation load and distribute it more equitably. An international conference for reduction of armaments and some menacing causes of war was started. The federal farm loan board was provided with funds in order that it might resume loans to farmers. The war finance corporation was given a credit of half a billion dollars and sent out to relieve the agricultural community.

"We summoned the whole community to take itself by its economic bootstraps and lift itself out of the slough of despondency in which it was fast miring down. A national conference on unemployment was called. The whole business field was surveyed to determine whether more employment could be found and to get man and job together. Appeal was made to every employer to find work for as many people as possible. Municipalities pressed public improvement works. Every employing interest was appealed to 'do it now.

"Emergency committees were established all over the country by industries and municipalities to help organize. Labor and capital, employers and employes united in a common effort which proved to be one of the finest demonstrations of applied altruism and intelligent unselfishness that has ever been accomplished on a like scale. Our policy was to encourage the people to help themselves."

For Vacation Discomforts

The unaccustomed exercise of vacation-time is apt to make the muscles sore, stiff and painful. Other spoil-sports are sunburn, insect bites and poison oak or poison ivy.

Vicks can be applied to prevent these discomforts and is also a soothing relief. It helps, too, in case of summer colds, hay fever or headache.

RESERVES SIGN DAYTON PITCHER TO TAKE WICAL'S PLACE; TO PLAY STUDEBAKERS

Weary of the effort to keep Wical, the Paintersville pitcher in line, the management of the Xenia Reserves has dropped this temperamental hurler to take on Chester Ciphers, Dayton slab artist, who will be on the hill for the locals when they face the Dayton Studebakers at Reserve Park Sunday afternoon.

Ciphers is now pitching in the Dayton Saturday Afternoon League and has been second string relief hurler for the Harshmanville team, considered one of the crack semi-pro outfits in this section. He has signed to play with the Reserves for the rest of the season and the management feels that the contract solves the pitching problem for the locals.

Several other new faces in the Reserve lineup will includ Pummell, of Dayton, who pitched part of last Sunday's game and "Grinny" Milburn, of this city, both of whom have signed. The Reserves are taking on an arm load in booking the Studebakers, who have won the last three starts handily. Bob Heck pitches for the Dayton team and other stars include Mann and Russ Bowman, the latter one of the best short short stops in Dayton.

AL MAHRT TO QUIT FOOTBALL FOREVER

Al Mahrt is through!

It was learned Thursday that "Marty" will leave Dayton next October to enter on new business pursuits in Chicago. The announcement was received with gloom by followers of the Triangles, Dayton's entrant in the football league.

For years "Marty" has been making gridiron history at Dayton. At the University, then St. Marys Institute, and as quarterback on the St. Marys Cadets and later the Triangles, the "cotton top" has been rated as the real punch in the offensive of these teams. Quick to take up the forward pass he perfected himself in this style of over head play with the result that he was considered one of the most accomplished assers in the country. His passes always had yardage and accuracy and his entrance in the game meant speedy open play.

Fans believe the Triangles always play better with "Marty" in the lineup. He added zest to the proceedings whenever injected in the encounter to pilot a scoring attack. His retirement will mark the passing of one of the best and most poular athletes Dayton has ever known.

WASHINGTON STAR, THOUGH HURT LEADS CREW TO FIRST WIN

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 29.—Dow Walling, 21 year old hero of Washington's victorious eight, winners of the annual intercollegiate regatta, was today suffering intense pain from the infected knee which for three days pending the event, threatened to keep him in the hospital instead of at the stroke seat of the "Huskies" shell.

Walling had to be lifted from the Washington boat at the finish of the race last evening when the western crew came in ahead of Navy, leading Columbia, Syracuse, Cornell and Pennsylvania in the order named.

The Washington crew was the "toast of the town" today. While considered a dangerous rival to formidable eastern eights, the westerners—particularly with Walling injured—were not expected to capture such a race last evening when the western clean cut victory.

While the time of 14:03 1-5 for the three mile row, was not a record breaker, when Navy's last year time of 13:33 3-5 is considered the speed of the westerners, under existing weather and water conditions showed their power. The first mile of the race was run in a light race, the last two miles in a downpour.

Washington's victory is the first ever taken by the west in the 28 years of the intercollegiate regatta's history.

In the freshman two mile race, one of the most thrilling seen in a Poughkeepsie regatta, Cornell defeated Washington by an eye lash—by one-fifth of a second. Syracuse finished third, Pennsylvania fourth and Columbia fifth.

Syracuse won the two mile junior varsity race by a length, Cornell was second, Columbia third and Pennsylvania fourth.

Thoroughbred Beauty·Performance·Stamina

Paige behavior bespeaks the engineering experience behind the car. Never will you find a car more delightful in handling ease than the Paige.

Paige 70 H. P. motor takes you smoothly over the open road at 70 miles an hour or through the traffic crush at 2. Gear shifting is rarely necessary. Then a bare 3-inch movement does it, and the docile Paige clutch engages without stalling or jerking. No clash or missing mar the driving of the veriest novice.

Paige bodies are substantial. Body squeaks and rattles are prevented by double strips of patent leather that keep metal from touching metal or wood. Richness of finish throughout—not a piece of imitation leather in the car. Ample foot room—and deeply cushioned seats, set comfortably low, make restful riding. Rear springs more than 5 feet long, turn bad roads to good. Easy travel is further assured by 131-inch wheelbase.

Completely equipped—two extra cord tires, rims, tubes, covers, mounted forward on the running boards; stop light; front and rear bumpers; automatic windshield wiper; rear-view mirror; cigar lighter—are a few of the usual extras, that are standard equipment on the Paige.

It is possible to offer this enduring Paige value because the tremendous volume on the Paige-built Jewett has reduced overhead on Paige by hundreds of dollars a car. And it is a value unexcelled. Test it for yourself by seeing and driving this car of fine workmanship. Phone us for a demonstration of unusual car performance.

THE PROGRESS OF THE WORLD.

Each recurring midsummer brings freshly to mind the world crisis of 1914 and the outbreak of the Great War. We are about to begin the tenth year of international struggle toward a non-military basis, and toward a reconstruction of the world on plans in harmony with political democracy and the modern trends of economic and social progress. While the armistice of 1918 and its accompanying events marked a profound transition, they did not secure the results for which an appalling price had been paid. Peace agreements to be genuine, must be ratified in good faith and good will. Otherwise they are but a temporary device, and mean nothing but a pause for the gathering of strength to renew the clash of arms. Thus far it may be said that we have had the benefit of a continuance for almost four years of certain parts of the armistice arrangement, though we are still living in a world that has not dared to relinquish militarism either in principle or in practice. Since 1918, there have been several wars of such proportions that history will call them "minor" only in comparison with the unprecedented magnitude of the struggle that was suspended in November, 1918.

The Great War involved national resources of every kind as well as the movements of armies. How colossal was America's industrial mobilization has now been shown in a notable book by Mr. Grosvenor Clarkson, formerly director of the Council of National Defense, entitled, "Industrial America in the World War." Germany alone, ten years ago, had understood—in a way that shaped economic developments—what a war would mean in terms of national effort. It took us about a year after we had gone into the war in the spring of 1917 to get into the full swing of munition-making and shipbuilding, with our railroads, farms, and general resources all mobilized for war service. If Germany had held her fighting lines until the summer of 1919, our preparation as regards aircraft, ships, munitions, deadly gases, and all the new phases of the war that represented national power in an age of chemistry and electricity, would have been overwhelming. If another great war should occur, it would be still more deadly than the last in its resort to new instruments and methods. Europe is perfecting aircraft and inventing chemical surprises; and if Germany has lost her old weapons she may discover new ones of a far deadlier kind.

The attitude of the United States is altogether friendly; but as long as the world shows lack of willingness to accept peace in good faith, and prefers to rely upon force as the principle behind diplomatic maneuvers, it will not be safe for the United States to trust for its security to its own freedom from designs against the rights of other nations. The sinking of the German fleet was a long step towards a new order of things; but there are other steps that are necessary in logical sequence. A second step was taken when the Washington Conference, accepting the proposals of the United States Government, found a way to stop competitive naval expansion as regards capital ships. Such naval agreement should go much farther, until they lead to the definite abandonment of naval warfare and to co-operative plans for the policing of the seas at minimum cost. The next step should be the completion of a code of maritime international law to be ratified by all sea-faring nations. Then in due time the co-operative policing of the seas ought to be followed by the creation of a distinct ocean jurisdiction, with an international executive and with naval co-operation developed into an international navy, to maintain the freedom of the seas for the shipping and the commerce of all sea-faring nations.

THE MUCH DISCUSSED "WORLD COURT."

It is perhaps due to the long vacation of Congress, and the relative lack of material encountered by Washington correspondents and political writers, that the subject of our accepting membership in the existing Permanent Court of International Justice has been whipped up into the shape of a controversy that has taken on the semblance of something almost desperate in its urgency and its vital meaning. This country has always favored either temporary tribunals of arbitration for particular questions, or permanent tribunals on the Hague plan, or well constituted courts capable of dealing with justiciable matters to be voluntarily submitted. Our readers are well aware that an international court now exists, and that it sits at The Hague to deal with such questions as may be brought before it. It was one of those institutions that was advocated by the United States at the Paris Peace Conference. It might very well have been organized independently, as a development of the earlier Hague Tribunals; and the fuel that it has come into being is due not so much to the Paris peace conference as to those previous American efforts which resulted in the building that Mr. Carnegie's beneficence erected at The Hague, with a view to progressive internationalism in the form of courts of justice, as well as to frequent conference for the improvement of international law.

It happens that this particular court was provided for in the Covenant of the League of Nations. Its functioning, however, is in no way dependent upon the League. One of its most eminent judges is an American, the Hon. John Bassett Moore. The plans upon which it has been organized were made by a committee of publicists which included the Hon. Elihu Root. As matters now stand, the court is as available to the United States as if our Government was a member of the League of Nations. President Harding and our State Department believe that it would be a consistent and desirable thing for us to pay a share of the expenses of the court, and to take an official part from time to time in the formalities of filling vacancies on the bench. It is hard to find any weight in objections to our taking the advice of President Harding and Secretary Hughes in this matter. On the other hand, there is nothing pressing about the question, and nothing to get excited about. If we should be sending a case to that court, we would expect to pay court costs of various kinds. If we signed the protocol and were officially concerned in maintaining the court, we should have a bill to pay so trifling that it would not relieve the other nations of any conscious burden of expense. At the present time, Germany has a case under trial, and a temporary German judge is sitting.

If for some reason the President and Cabinet did not think it best for us just now to become officially connected with the court, the matter would bear postponement. But the Administration has taken what seems to us a position in full accord with America's previous record and approved sentiment.

THE END OF HIS PLEASANT LITTLE RIDE

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

The warm weather of the last few days is bringing out the boys' enthusiasm for camp. The Y. M. C. A. boys are planning for their second annual camp which will begin July 8 and last two weeks. Mr. John Bryan of Riverside Farm, has again offered his 500 acres of land and will turn over the farm to the boys.

Mr. John Ervin, who drew the the horse and runabout at the Elks circus has sold the outfit to Mr. Charles Fisher.

The harvest is on about the court house. A mower, to which a team is hitched is being used to cut the grass which had grown up on the grounds in a most luxurious fashion.

Herbert Whittington, a graduate of the Xenia High School this year, has taken a position with the Pan Handle as car service clerk in the Xenia yards.

FRANCINE—You wish the history of "Honi soit qui maly pense." Well, the beautiful Countess of Salisbury, while minuetting at a ball given by Edward the Third, had the misfortune to lose one of her garters. The king found the blue ribbon, picked it up and placed it around his knee—he was in courtier's dress, of course—and danced with the ribbon in plain view—the cynosure of all neighboring eyes. A gossip whispered to the king that the identity of the garter might become known to the husband of the countess, and that, at any rate, the room was already buzzing with comment. King Edward, who would have his little joke, but preferred to utter his quips in French, merely replied "Honi soit qui maly pense," (Evil to him who evil thinketh), and continued to dance.

BEAUTY CHATS by EDNA KENT FORBES

ATTRACTIVE ARMS

To be attractive, the arms must be beautiful in contour, firm and with clear skin. The test really is the upper arm, which is so apt to be too fat or too thin, and the elbow, which so often looks uncared for.

If you yourself are overweight or underweight, you must try to become normally fleshy again. This takes time, of course, so in the meanwhile, by way of improvement, you can massage and exercise the arms to make them pretty. If you are 50 pounds overweight, no amount of arm exercises will take away the "leg of mutton" shape at the shoulders; if you are below weight, exercise can't put flesh on the bones above the elbow. But you can vary ten to 20 pounds either way, and, by exercise, still achieve beautiful arms.

Rowing, swimming, tennis and golf are the best of the outdoor sports for this. If none of these are available, join a gymnasium if you can, or stand at your mirror and do exercises by yourself. Any sort that tense the muscles are good, especially if combined with deep breathing.

To improve the skin nothing is better than starch paste. This can be either the cold water paste made with laundry starch, spread on and allowed to stay half an hour or so, or else the cooked starch used the same way. The cold water kind I think a little better.

Before washing the arms, rub them with olive oil or cleansing cream, scrub this out with soap and water. Use oatmeal soap, which is bleaching, and rub vanishing cream into the elbows of they are rough or dark. Such little treatments will do wonders for your arms.

V. Discouraged—There is nothing unusual about your case, as most women are more developed on one side than the other. Dress so the difference is nott noticable.

J. C. W.—You are merely temporarily depleted from the tonsilitis, and a few weeks of pleasant weather will likely bring you up to par again. Drink plenty of milk and go out into the sunshine all that you can.

READER—Any cream is nourishing that contains vegetable oils or animal fats, but the latter should never be used on the complexion unless there is not the slightest tendency to superfluous hair growth. The creams that do not nourish have mineral oil in them.

BEFORE ONE KNOWS

There is one thing that never stops—even for the fraction of a second—and that is time. On and on it goes.

And before one knows, hours—days—years have gone by.

But there must be no reason for regret or worry. The thought that this minute, this hour, this day shall never come to us again should spur us to renewed effort to make it mean something—to make it count for something in its relation to the minutes, days and years yet to come.

To one dead in earnest time is only a medium of cooperation into which are to be melted his best efforts.

But before one knows, even the most important tasks have given way to time, and left us with so much undone—unattempted.

Plan to get the fullest possible happiness out of what you do right now. Then keep thinking ahead—picturing the thrills that are sure to come with the things to do that follow your present efforts.

Few great workers ever accomplish but a fraction of what they most desire. But the fact that they are continually planning far, far into the future is evidence of their present worth and sincerity.

Always have something important to do—even though it may be no more than to think happy thoughts. We little dream of the lives that are enriched by just this.

But take time to be kind, to live, to learn and to love. Because before one knows, the chance for all of these may be gone forever.

ODOR OF ETHER IN AMERICAN LEGION ROOMS ANNOUNCES SERIES OF OPERATIONS

The odor of other prevailed over the vicinity of the American Legion rooms, at Second and Detroit Streets, Thursday and Friday, when twenty seven children from all over the county were operated upon for the removal of tonsils and adenoids. The free clinic was held under the auspices of the Greene County Chapter of the Red Cross.

The clinic, the second conducted by the Red Cross chapter during the past year, was held on Thursday and Friday mornings, to accommodate the large group of patients.

Local physicians and nurses gave their services to the cause which they say constitutes a step in overcoming the advance of disease in the county. Twelve children were operated on Thursday morning, by Drs. Reed Madden, P. D. Espey, assisted by Drs W. A. Galloway and R. H. Grube, all of Xenia.

Miss Helen Evers, Red Cross nurse was assisted Thursday by the Misses Matilda Evers, Helen Maxey, Cora Mc Donald, of ths city and Mildred Stewart, and Gertrude Carr, of Yellow Springs, Mrs. Robert Terrell, Xenia, and Mrs. C. N. Smith, New Jasper. The Rev. W. H. Tilford, chairman, of the Greene County Chapter of the Red Cross, with Mrs. W. O. Custis and Mrs. Milton McKay, both of this city, aided in the work Thursday. The Rev. Mr. Tilford assisted both days as did Ernest Pummell, American Legion member.

A larger group, fifteen children, was operated on Friday by Drs. W. H. Finley, Reed Madden, W. M. Hartinger Spring Valley, and C. G. McPherson. Drs. Kent Finley, George Davis of this city, while Drs. L. L. Taylor of Yellow Springs and R. L. Haines, of Paintersville gave the anesthetic. The assistant nurses Friday were the Misses Matilda Evers, Cora McDonald, of this city, Mildred Fisher, Mrs. M. R. Snodgrass, Miss Helen Fisher, Mrs. Ernest Schmidt, Mrs. J. W. Stevens all of this city, and Mrs. C. N. Smith of New Jasper.

The patients during the two days were from Yellow Springs, Cedarville, New Jasper, Beavercreek Township, Spring Valley Township and Xenia.

D. D. Jones, druggist, furnished ice cream to the patients both days. The cots were furnished by the Galloway and Cherry and R. D. Adair Furniture Stores.

The Red Cross officials Friday expressed their appreciation to the American Legion Post for the use of the rooms, and to the doctors and their assistants who furnished their services.

CABLE MESSAGE USED IN CASE

White Plains, N. Y., June 29.—Refusing attorneys for Walter S. Ward, millionaire slayer of Clarence Peters, former marine, further delay, Justice Robert E. Waggener today ordered the famous "Hap-Dad" cable message placed before the grand jury investigating Peters' death.

Attorneys for the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies, went into the grand jury room with the messages. Whether they will obey the court ruling could not be learned.

The messages were sent to George Ward, father of the younger man, by both Walter Ward and Ralph Ward, another son. The cables are addressed to "Dad," and are signed "Hap" and "Tip Top,"—the necknames of Ward's sons.

GAS ORDINANCE IS TABLED UNTIL NEXT COMMISSION MEET

An ordinance to establish a 50-cent service charge monthly for each consumer of gas, requested by The Ohio Fuel Gas Company, was placed on its first reading by the City Commission at its meeting Thursday night.

The commission talked of the proposed ordinance for some time before it was tabled for discussion at the next meeting, when it will be up for passage. In the meantime City Solicitor J. A. Finney and members of the commission will conduct an investigation of the company's financial standing and of the operation of the ordinance in other cities.

The newly paved street, North Detroit from Fairground Avenue to the corporation line was accepted by the commission and a motion passed to notify the county commissioners the street is ready. W. F. Foster, Dayton, consulting engineer for the city in the paving work, told commissioner he believed the finished street to be a good job.

Rules and regulations to govern plumbers tampering with lines of the Municipal Water Department will be presented at the next commission meeting at the suggestion of City Auditor T. H. Zell. Auditor Zell told commissioners that when water subscribers fail to pay their bills their water supply is cut off. Investigation, however, he said, showed that plumbers frequently turn the water on witout notifying the department. The proposed rules and regulations will probably place plumbers under a surety bond with penalty of forfeit of license for violation. An ordinance will follow later, it is said.

RADIO PROGRAM TO FEATURE MEETING

Members of the Junior Men's Club, of the First M. E. Church and their friends are invited to attend the meeting, to be held at the home of Albert Tucker, on South Detroit Street, Monday at 7:30 o'clock.

The meeting has been planned by a committee composed of Albert Tucker Joe Brahm, and Douglas Custis, in order to arouse interest and to gain new members. Douglas Custis is teacher of the class and Austin Black, president.

A radio program with a feed will be features of the evening.

CHAUTAUQUA SITE BEING CONSIDERED

Further plans for another successful Chautauqua season, which will open in Xenia Sunday, July 15, were laid at a meeting of the executive board, in the portable building in the rear of the old Central School building, Thursday evening.

The site committee, composed of Harper C. Pendry, D. J. Hollencamp, and the Rev. Mr. Tilford, reported the selection of several possible sites, and will make a more definite report at a future meeting.

The seven-day-advertizing man, will arrive in Xenia, next Friday, to prepare for the Chautauqua. Prospects are favorable for a good season, according to members of the executive committee. Seven hundred tickets have been distributed over the city.

Powder this way—let skin breathe and stay young

Wrong powdering stops skin breathing, science warns

The reason that 7 women in 9 have aged, unlovely skin is that they clog pores, by wrong powdering.

For Science now says that skin must breathe to stay young, and pretty. This breathing is done through the pores—and it cannot go on if pores are covered air-tight, and clogged.

Beauty lies in true skin

The color and beauty of skin is held by the "derma cutis" or true skin, which is covered by the outer skin. By breathing, this true skin rids itself of impurities—through the pores.

If breathing stops, impurities remain. Skin ages, dries, roughens. And pretty freshness leaves.

Correct powdering

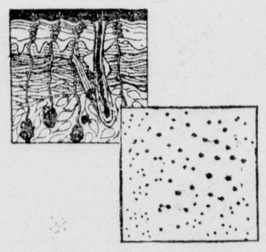

The day is coming when women will not use cosmetics, but will again depend upon natural complexion beauty for charm. What of your skin, then?

Now Science has found a powder which always lets skin breathe—use it heavily as you wish. It is superlatively fine, dainty, clinging—yet air can pass through it, skin can breathe. FREEMAN'S is the name of this delightful powder, which is recommended by beauty specialists everywhere.

Special two-weeks' offer

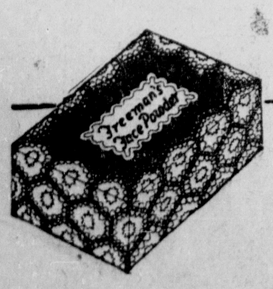

As a means of getting you to test the truth of these statements, we are making an unusual offer—for two weeks. We will sell you a 75c box of FREEMAN'S NEW FACE POWDER for only 59c. And with each box you buy, we'll give you FREE, a full-size package of FREEMAN'S Talc.

Accept this generous offer today. Learn what improvement comes by letting your skin breathe—how quickly that satiny, youthful freshness returns. Don't for another day injure your skin by wrong powdering!

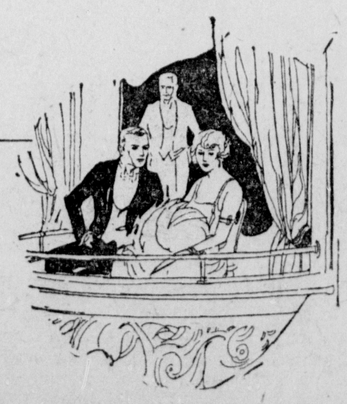

These are microscopic views of your skin—one in cross-section, one of the surface. They show the breathing "apparatus" of the skin: the pores. These tiny pores—"mouths"—are so small that there are 1,200 of them to the square inch. So you see how easily they can be clogged—and all skin breathing stopped.

BRADFUTE ASSERTS FARMERS ANXIOUS TO FIND MARKETS

Cincinnati, O., June 29.—O. E. Bradfute of Xenia, O., made a strong plea here last night for a strong merchant marine service.

Mr. Bradfute who is president of the American Farm Bureau federation, is the spokesman for 1,000,000 farmers.

Asserting that it is not fair to require private ship owners to operate their vessels in competition with government owned ships, having back of them the U. S. treasury, former Senator Atlee Pomerene of Canton, renewed his allegiance to the American merchant marine and said the American people want it.

Edward C. Plummer of Bath, Me., one of the commissioners of the United States Shipping board, was also a speaker at the dinner which closed the first days session of the Farmer-Manufacturer Foreign Trade conference, which was held under the auspices of the Middlewest Foreign Trade and Merchant Marine committee.

Twenty-one states of the middlewest south and southwestern states were represented at the conference in addition to which there were the executives of farm organizations and associations of ship owners, ship builders, ship operators and some 20 commercial bodies.

Mr. Bradfute said that in framing a program for the next merchant marine bill "we should steer clear of controversial questions and find out where we all can find a common ground." He stressed the magnitude of the agricultural industry in America and said that the million farmers of every type which his organization represented were eager to do anything feasible which would result in the finding of a steady market for American farm products in foreign countries.

"We can frame a ship bill without asking for government subsidy or for the direct operation of ships by the government which will be an all-American idea for the interest of the nation as a whole," he said.

Winthrop L. Marvin, New York, vice president and general manager of the American Steamship Owners' associa- whose members operate 700 ships, speaking at the afternoon session, declared even if foreign ships carried American goods more cheaply than American vessels it would be better to trust American goods to shippers who had the interests of American business at heart.

H. C. Hunter, New York, counsel of the American shipbuilders' association will be pleased to support any reasonable measures the people of the nation may united on for the upbuilding of the merchant marine.

The conference adopted a resolution presented by L. J. Folse, manager of the Mississippi Development Board representing the governor of Mississippi in which he protested against ship monopoly either by American or foreign owners and also urged that ships in the hands of the United States shipping board be held and not sold at this time.

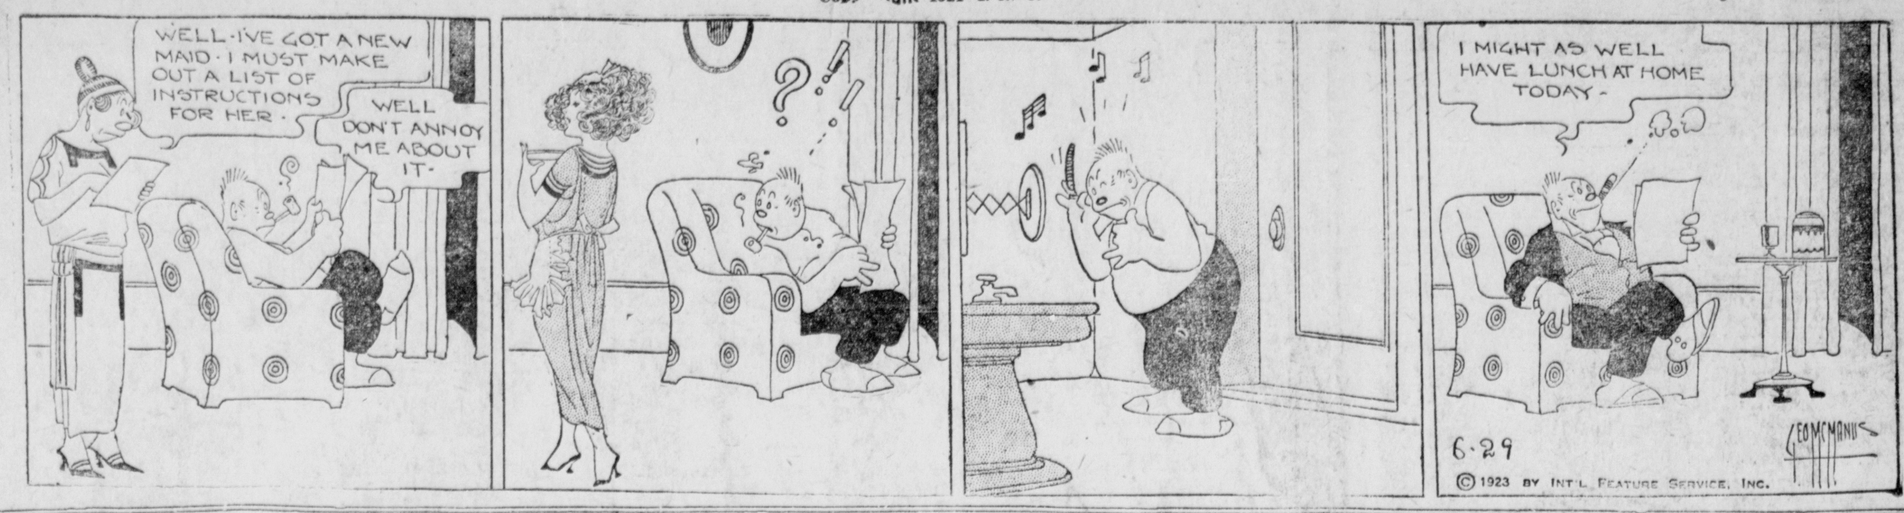

WOMAN LOSES LIFE.

Youngstown, O., June 29.—Mrs. Michael F. Hyland, wife of the clerk of city council, was fatally crushed and two other persons were seriously injured when three automobiles were ditched on a hill one mile east of Lake Milton. Mrs. Hyland died later in a local hospital.

KNIGHT TAKES POT SHOT AT MEASURE

Portsmouth, O., June 28.—Speaking here last night before the Exchange Club, former Representative Charles L. Knight, of Akron, took a pot shot at the Taft-Albaugh taxation bill, condemned the world court and attacked "state socialism." He described the Taft bill as "that polyglot performance in which a mouse labored and a taxation mount was bor."

The so-called budget system set up under this legislation, he said, "will cost the people of Ohio a million each year and will provide them with nothing they do not now have."

HOUGH RECOGNIZED

Columbus, June 29.—Benson W. Hough was extended federal recognition as major general of the Ohio national guard, it was announced from Washington. In accepting Hough as the first head of the Ohio guard, the war department atifies his nomination recently by Governor Donahey and ends an interregnum existing since the militia board declined to accept the nomination of General George Florence.

Almost every kitchen garden has its row of peas. And lucky is the housewife who has enough peas to can as well as to serve on the table. Peas are a little more difficult to can than the other vegetables, but success can be gained by following these directions carefully:

To Can Peas—Use only fresh, young peas. Gather them in the early morning if possible and can them at once. At least do not let them stand long after shelling. Sort them over, putting peas of the same size together. Be sure not to use hard, ripe peas among very tender ones. This is important, because the very young, tender peas need scarcely more than two minutes of blanching, whereas the very old ones may need 20 minutes of blanching.

For ordinary, tender peas, however, blanch from three to eight minutes—three minutes for the small ones and eight minutes for the larger. This blanching water should contain one teaspoon of baking soda to every gallon. "Cold-dip" the peas in water containing one tablespoon of salt to every gallon, let them remain in this salty water from 20 to 30 seconds. Drain and pack in sterilized glass jars.

Do not pack your jars too full of the peas, as that may cause them to burst during the processing, thus making a cloudy liquor. Put one and one-half level teaspoons of salt and sugar (mixed) into each quart-size jar. Cover the peas in the jar with boiling water to within one-fourth inch of top, place a new rubber on the jar-rim and adjust glass cover.

Processing—The Intermittent Method of processing has been found safer for peas (as well as for asparagus, beans and corn) than the One-Period Method. By the Intermitten Method the jar of peas is boiled in the canner for one hour on each of three successive days. During each of these three periods of boiling the top wire is up over the glass cap, but the side wire is not pressed down, at the end of the boiling period the jar is; completely sealed—that is, the wire is pressed down and the jar is taken from the wash-boiler canner and allowed to stand over night in ordinary room temperature. In the morning the side wire is raised so that the jar can be boiled, or "processed," exactly as it was before. After the third processing, the side wire is pressed down permanently, the jar inverted to cool and test for leaks, then labeled and stored. It will pay the housekeeper to go to this trouble of processing the jar on three successive days, for by so doing she will not lose a jar through spoilage.

YOUNG SLAYER TALKS.

Lancaster, O., June 29.—Fred C. Mills of Akron, ward at the Boys' Industrial school here, related to officers the details of how he had killed Officer John H. Carshner of the institution. "I didn't mean to do it," the boy declared, "I only wanted to stun him so I could go home to my mother." Mills, in jail here, was bound over to the grand jury under $10,000 on a charge of murder.

HORACE VISITS MR. MARSHALL

Chapter XXXIV

Natalie's emotions were curiously mixed as she hurried away from Horace's proximity. He was still searching for her, despite her letter, else why should he go to Etta's? It was going to be hard to elude him if she remained in New York, yet she felt she must remain. She had a good position, better than she could hope to obtain elsewhere. In the small town where her mother lived there was no chance for her, and they could not afford to support her at home. But underneath was a certain thrill of gladness. Horace cared a little for her or he would make no effor to find her. And when once again she reached her home, no thought of Craig Harper came to her, of the pleasant hour they had spent; only Horace was in her mind, and her heart cried out for him, for his love.

Impatient with herself, she finally said aloud:

"I've got to stop thinking about him. He didn't care enough to try to make me happy. His mother was the only person he really thought about. I meant nothing in that house. Oh, if we could only have had a little place like Etta's, all to ourselves!" And Natalie's impatience with herself did not prevent her from crying herself to sleep. Seeing Horacce had brought back very vividly thoughts of the time when he loved her, his many kindnesses.

But with the coming of another day she was able to smile grimly at her emotion. She had deliberately chosen her path, she would walk in it, and without looking back.

Horace had gone to Etta's forlornly hoping he might learn something of Natalie. He missed her more and more as the days passed. He and his mother disagreed more frequently than they ever before had done. She urged him constantly to do nothing, let people forget.

"If you'll just say nothing, do nothing for a time, you can then quietly divorce her for desertion; and no one will think anything of it," Mrs. Crandell urged.

Mrs. Crandell was not a bad woman, in many respects she was a very good one. She was generous, gave a great deal to different charities, gave of her time as well as her money. But, in her estimation, not only had Horace married beneath him, he had married a misfit, a girl who could not measure up in any particular to what a Crandell's wife should be.

She had tolerated Natalie because she must. But now that of her own free will she had left them, Mrs. Crandell could not conceive of any reason why her son should want her back. So she grew impatient when she learned he was still searching for her, that he wanted her to return. And her attitude often made Horace wonder if Natalie had put up with more than he had realized.

Disappointed, Horace turned from his futile ringing at Etta's door bell. With his head dropped, unseeing, he went slowly away, unconscious that she he sought was watching him.

The very next day he went to his lawyer, Mr. Marshall.

Fortunately for Natalie's secret, Mr. Marshall was busy and Horace sent in his name with a request for a few moments' audience as soon as possible.

"It's come!" Natalie said, as she heard.

"You may go, Miss Horton," her employer said, a meaning look on his face. Natalie slipped out of a private entrance, her heart beating so madly she was sure Mr. Marshal could hear.

Mr. Marshall, while glad to have Natalie back, had more than once felt guilty because of hiring her, and had talked seriously with her about returning to Horace. But finding her determined had satisfied himself by saying:

"I suppose if she is determined to work I may as well benefit as another."

Horace was with Mr. Marshall for some time. Natalie waited in trembling anxiety until he should leave. She felt quite sure he would speak of her, even though he might have called upon other business.

She was not mistaken. Scarcely had he left when Mr. Marshall rang for her.

"I must have a serious talk with yo Mrs. Horton—Mrs. Crandell," he sai "Mr. Crandell has confided in me, y I do not think I shall abuse his co fidence if I tell you something of wh he said."

Natalie braced herself to hear, an —to adhere to her determination.

Cooking With Gas

Because natural gas is concentrated heat, being about twice the value of the best manufactured gas, it will do more cooking than most people get out of it.

With the right appliances natural gas is the cheapest and most satisfactory fuel known. The right cooking appliance will always give a short, blue flame when adjusted properly. It is not necessary that this flame go up around the cooking utensil, but it is necessary to have its tip close to the bottom of the utensil.

Gaining Efficiency

Consequently all burners should be not over 1 1-4 inches from the cooking surface, and should be kept clean and carefully regulated to give the right flame, this regulation being accomplished by the valve and the air shutters. A yellow flame is always wasteful; a flame that roars is equally wasteful.

Solid tops on cooking ranges waste much gas, the heat being deflected away from the cooking. Natural gas should always be burned with skeleton lids. Right appliances properly cared for not only give better results, but also make the gas bills less.
